Bengals Win Series on Home Ground by Score of 4 Games to 2 for National League Champs

By ALAN GOULD.

Associated Press Sports Editor.

NAVIN FIELD, DETROIT, Oct. 7.—(P)—Leon Allen Goslin, an amiable New Jersey farmer known far and wide as "The Goose," struck the $50,000 blow today that carried Detroit's Tigers to their first world championship in a slug-fest, rip-roaring finish to the baseball wars of 1935.

With the score tied, two out and Manager Mickey Cochrane on second base in the last half of the ninth inning, the Goose produced the golden base hit, a line single over the head of Billy Herman, star second baseman of the Chicago Cubs, that brought Cochrane home with the deciding run.

Goslin's winning hit off Larry French, Cub southpaw, gave the battling Bengals a 4-3 victory in the sixth game, and carried them to triumph in the series by a margin of four games to two and enabled slim Tommy Bridges, curveball right-hander to achieve his second pitching conquest after a thrilling struggle.

Brilliant Stand.

Coming after a brilliant stand by Bridges, who stopped the Cubs cold in their half of the ninth after Stan Hack had opened with a triple to deepest center, the Goose's warpath touched off one of the wildest home-town demonstrations any World Series has witnessed since the renowned Walter Johnson pitched the Washington Senators to victory over the New York Giants at the nation's capital in 1924.

The biggest crowd that has ever seen a ball game in Detroit, 48,420 roaring fans who contributed to the seventh million-dollar "gate" in World Series history, swarmed to the stadium, all poured out on the field the moment that Cochrane crossed the plate, well ahead of Frank Demaree's futile throw in the general direction of home. On the same field where they laid down a barrage of fruit and vegetable the year before, as the Cardinals were knocking the ears off the home side, the Tiger bleacherites swarmed to the diamond and started a terrific uproar that lasted for hours and was continued, far into the night, in all parts of the city.

Crowd After Goose.

The crowd's surge nearly crushed Goslin as he tried to make his way toward the gates. Finally, with six bluecoats as an escort, the Goose managed to work his way across the diamond, clutching his hat, grinning and waving a final salute to his hero-worshippers as he escaped through a side exit.

It was a highly exciting and dramatic climax to Detroit's longest quest.

Roosevelt Day Holiday Declared; Congressmen Meeting Here Today

City Council Resolution Adopted by Acclamation; State Legislators Also Plan Session This Morning; Warm Springs Mayor Attacks Governor Talmadge.

Adopting its resolution by acclamation, the city council of Atlanta yesterday declared Roosevelt Homecoming Day a public holiday, ordered the city hall and all other municipal buildings closed and urged business houses to close their doors in order that all who desire to may hear President Roosevelt's speech in Grant field.

The council acted on the eve of two important meetings on the Roosevelt homecoming scheduled for today, one being the meeting of the Georgia delegation in congress, which will map details of the homecoming celebration at a session this morning at the celebration headquarters in the 101 building.

Senator Walter F. George, who as senior senator called today's meeting, arrived last night from his home at Vienna.

"I expected Senator Russell in from his home at Winder in the morning and all 10 congressmen have notified me that they will be here," Senator George said. "The widespread support of our president in Georgia is being vividly displayed by the enthusiasm manifest over the homecoming celebration. We are looking forward to one of the greatest days in Georgia's glorious history."

Key to Attend.

Mayor James L. Key and Clark Howell Sr., editor of The Constitution, have been invited by Senator George to sit in on the conference.

The congressional delegation is to meet at 11 o'clock. An hour earlier there will be a meeting of a legislative committee of 10 members of the house and five of the senate, appointed by Speaker E. D. Rivers. This meeting has been called by Chairman Marion Allen, of Millersville.

The legislative committee is expected to adopt a resolution pledging its full cooperation to the Georgia delegation.

The Roosevelt homecoming celebration officials yesterday were tendered and accepted the services of the newly organized Roosevelt Re-election Clubs which have organizations set up in 60 Georgia counties. The executive committee, headed by Mrs. W. R. Simpson, of Decatur, and including W. E. Smith, of Manchester, president of the clubs, and William Schley Howard, of Atlanta, secretary, called on Erie Cooke, chairman of the temporary arrangements committee, and pledged full cooperation.

Railroad men will form a Roosevelt-for-President Club at a meeting called for 10:30 o'clock this morning at the Red Men's wigwam on Central avenue, it was announced yesterday by L. W. Flowers, who called the session.

ATLANTA DOCTOR URGES LICENSES FOR DRIVERS HERE

Chain Store Employees Join Safety Campaign 100 Per Cent; More Patrolmen Asked by AAA.

"Usually those who drive the fastest have the least to do when they reach their destination."

Omnious words, those. Especially so when one considers they were sent in a message of co-operation to The Atlanta Constitution's Safety Council the same day Atlanta recorded her 36th and 37th fatal accidents of the year.

They came on the stationery of the Atlanta hospital, over the signature of a man who has seen his share of maimed, shattered accident victims—Dr. Thomas H. Hancock.

"The life or limb of the humblest citizen should have a higher value, and every driver should be required to have a license," Doctor Hancock wrote.

Simultaneously the Safety Council received the 100 per cent sign-up of the Hartford Accident and Indemnity Company, 32 driving employees in all, from H. E. Heineck, office manager, and C. F. Baker, southern manager.

A. & P. Joins Up.

"The Atlanta Constitution should, indeed, be eulogized for this laudable undertaking in appealing for more careful driving from the public at large," wrote B. F. Vinson, vice president of the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co., whose southern division headquarters is located at 881 Fair street, S. E.

"We wish to advise that the employees in our own organization have signed 100 per cent on their pledges to be more careful. This campaign is very similar to one the A. & P. has been conducting for employees for the past seven or eight months."

Another letter, this from a former Georgia and Florida traffic officer: "No doubt your Safety Council will help not a little, but unless our state, city and county officers will bear down on all reckless driving and punish all violators impartially, it will never come to be dangerous to run any road or highway at any time. Please allow me membership in the drive, J. R. Pace, Soperton, Ga."

Road Hogs Scored.

"I find at night many drivers who won't dim their lights on signal—also numerous drunks and road hogs. Send me some safe driving stickers and I'll distribute them. E. Campbell, Pavo, Ga."

"Citizens of Rome want to join with other Georgians in making it safer to drive and safer for pedestrians. Enclosed please find four safe driving pledges," wrote Harry T. Evans, of Rome, Ga.

One patrolman for every 5,000 motor vehicles is the recommendation of the American Automobile Association summed up the shortage of personnel in state highway patrols in a bulletin issued yesterday.

"Because of the rapid and disproportionate increase in fatalities and injuries in rural areas traversed by high-speed state highways," the bulletin said, "the national motoring body strongly recommends that state highway patrol forces be doubled in strength as quickly as possible."

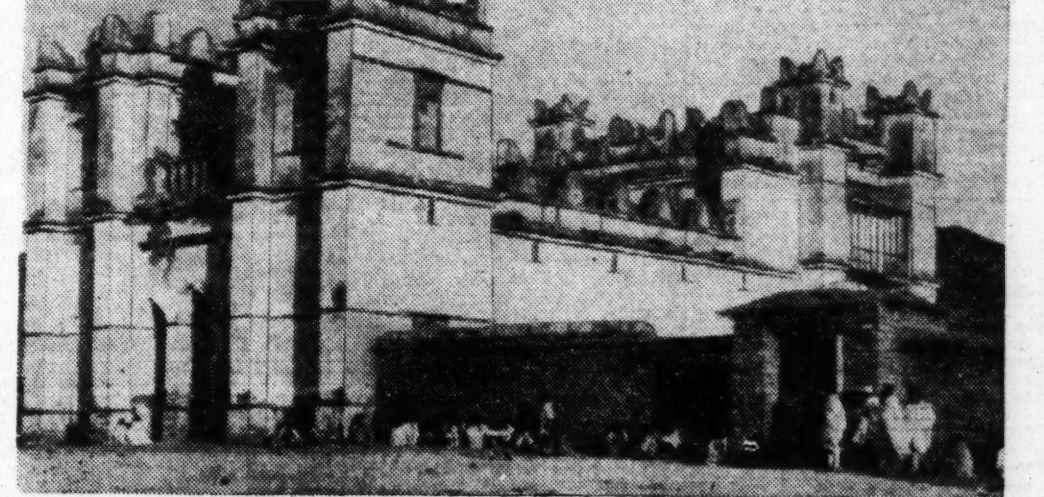

The records show that in 1934 there were 23,100 motor fatalities in rural areas, as compared to 12,900

Relentlessly pushing southward toward the Ethiopian frontier, Italian forces have seized the strategic town of Aduwa, a section of which is shown in the above photo. It was there Ethiopians annihilated Italian forces in 1936. Associated Press photo.

Twenty miles to the south of Aduwa lies the town of Makale with its imposing government palace shown in the photo above. Ethiopian troops are concentrating there and a major battle is expected in the immediate future. Associated Press photo.

WITH THE ITALIAN ARMIES IN THE FIELD, ADUWA, Ethiopia, Oct. 7.—Benito Mussolini's generals fortified their new-won lines and held their eager armies in leash on the northern Ethiopian front tonight.

The blackshirts, fresh from their avenging capture of Aduwa, were anxious to press on into the land of the hated "negus"—Emperor Haile Selassie. Their officers restrained their enthusiasm with difficulty, knowing too rapid an advance would mean loss of lives.

It seemed possible the armies would spend some days consolidating their positions along the line from Adigrat to Aduwa before striking again.

Defenders in Mountains.

Nevertheless, the Ethiopian warriors must be driven from the mountains directly behind Aduwa, and the Italian artillery will proceed to do this.

Prince Adalberto, Duke of Bergamo, visited general headquarters today after seeing his division to advanced lines.

The armies dug in carefully to meet the menace of savage enemy warriors.

Embargo Blow To Garlic---Cobb

By IRVIN S. COBB.

(Copyright, 1935, by North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., Oct. 7.—President Roosevelt started something with his proclamation warning United States citizens of ships belonging to the two warring nations, following the one of again selling to either of them munitions or deadly arms. The second order disappoints the thousands of tourists, especially those from the southern states, who arranged for winter cruises aboard Ethiopian boats, and the earlier one was a serious blow to those American producers who'd counted on selling Italy increased stocks of her favorite weapon. I refer to our garlic growers.

Think of all that stuff piling up in the warehouses over here and not nearly enough gas masks to go around! And with the supply cut off, think of the defenseless populace over there! The last time I was in Naples about every other person I met either had eaten too much garlic or not enough. And as I do toward our celebrated California climate—I like it, but not to excess.

When the nine justices, wearing black robes, filed solemnly through three crimson-draped entrances, they saw a packed marble-columned chamber filled to its 300-seat capacity.

The justices put on robes in the robing room at the rear of the court, and reached the room by a private elevator removed from the crowd. In the old days in the capitol building, it was necessary for them to elbow their way through the throngs which filled the corridors.

Headed by Marshall Green, the members—with Justice Hughes leading, entered the courtroom behind a heavy plush curtain at the rear of the bench, and dividing into groups of three, went onto the bench. All in the east court had occupied alone in 149 years, the supreme court turned its attention to President Roosevelt's New Deal for the nation as a whole. Four major laws of the administration were laid upon the scales as the nine justices began a session of what promise to be an epoch in constitutional interpretation.

High Court Gets Own 'New Deal,' Will Decide Fate of Roosevelt's

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—(P)—Today the recipient of a "new deal" itself, the first home the nation's highest court has occupied alone in 149 years, the supreme court turned its attention to President Roosevelt's New Deal for the nation as a whole. HAILE WILL LEAD ARMY OF 120,000 TO FIELD

Addis Ababa Asserts Aduwa Was Credited as Part of Strategic Campaign.

ADDIS ABABA, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Emperor Haile Selassie laid plans today to lead personally a huge army into the field against his fascist foes.

An official Ethiopian source termed peace rumors "almost" true, but would not go further. The Italian minister, Luigi Vinet-Gigliucci, said he was not aware of such a proposal.

Little Haile Selassie will head an army of 120,000 warriors, it was disclosed. Within a fortnight, he expects to have 600,000 well-armed men in the field and 400,000 others variously armed.

Ethiopia was expected to make a stand at the edge of the vast central plateau near Dessye, which lies at a middle point in the triangle formed by Addis Ababa, Aduwa and Mount Musau Ali.

The road to Dessye is now being prepared. For the first 30 miles Haile Selassie will travel by mule and for the remainder of the journey will ride in a modern automobile. With him will be Ras Mugueta, minister of war and one of Ethiopia's ablest generals.

The government announced yesterday the Italian occupation yesterday of Aduwa and Adigrat was accomplished without resistance and Ethiopians evacuated the towns in an orderly fashion in accordance with a preconcerted program.

Ethiopia, a spokesman asserted, plans to make a stand in mountains 40 miles south of Aduwa which natives consider impregnable. Aduwa is of no military importance, it was asserted.

At a special meeting today the diplomatic corps agreed to ask the various governments to appeal to Italy not to bomb Addis Ababa and other large towns, where many foreigners are living. The Italian minister did not attend the meeting.

Sources close to Haile Selassie represented him as being bitterly disappointed by President Roosevelt's proclamation placing an embargo on arms shipments. Ethiopia has no munitions factories, while Italy has a number of them.

No Real Engagements. Another in a series of several protests was dispatched to the League of Nations by the "Conquering Lion of Judah" against Italy's invasion. The main Ethiopian armies have not yet been engaged, Haile Selassie asserted, and emphasized that the war against small detachments at the frontier posts.

"Italian troops escorted by 20 airplanes yesterday entered Aduwa after taking Adigrat," the note said.

"Troops situated outside Aduwa are still there. All encounters so far have taken place where our frontier guards are small isolated detachments. Our troops have not yet entered into action."

The Italian aggression, prepared for several months against Ethiopia, to which arms for her defense have been systematically refused, is thus plainly effected in a region where the frontier is clearly defined and is indisputable.

Foreign Officers Stay. The Belgian government, after first recalling its military mission here, decided to permit it to remain in Ethiopia, but only as police officers and members must refrain from military activity.

Members of the Swedish military mission resigned their commissions in the Swedish army in order to remain here and "aid Ethiopia."

The government said it had no knowledge of a reported Italian advance into the south from Somali land and said Ethiopia was not aware of it.

An entirely unconfirmed and unofficial report was spread that Ethiopians had recaptured Aduwa after a HARA, Ethiopia, Oct. 7.—Speculation her assigns England a major role in protective measures, as a result of Italy's quarrel with Ethiopia, but circumscribes that role to the Somali countries.

England has had her troubles in Somalia, her last difficulty occurring in 1906. The British have seen to it that the Somali, since that day, have been ably led by men more interested in the exploration and classification of the African scene than in a mere military commission.

The Ethiopians naturally are apathetic to the Somalis, as there is a fierce and mutual dislike among the Gallas of Ogaden and the blacks of the coastal depressions, the two races being obviously at such variance that even the newcomers may learn to distinguish between them.

As one nears the Somali country, the Italian occupation yesterday of Aduwa and Adigrat was accomplished without resistance and Ethiopians evacuated the towns in an orderly fashion in accordance with a preconcerted program.

SHIP AT SAVANNAH AFFECTED BY WAR

SAVANNAH, Ga., Oct. 7.—(AP)—At least one ship in this port has felt the effect of the Italo-Ethiopian struggle.

The Dutch steamer Tabian reported receipt of orders to avoid the Suez canal in reaching its destination. It was routed around the Cape of Good Hope.

Ship's officers said the change would increase cost of the voyage and delay arrival two days.

The cattle are indeed hardy, their breeding being with strong counter-attack but this was in direct conflict with an official statement.

marks of Indian and Brahman. The beef is soon satiating; for cattle do not browse the rocky slopes and pastures for a lean, clean brown, but stand gorged and idle in waist-high blue grasses, indifferent to feed. Thus the meat is dark and rich, suggesting venison and tasting curiously of some preservative treatment. Beef is so plentiful that, far from being preserved, cattle are slaughtered for their hides and the carcasses given to the vultures.

This sounds unbelievable. Yet at a marketplace there is no difference in the price of a fresh-killed sheepskin and a sheep, the meat not being worth consideration. Even the poorest native can afford to keep a pair of hounds as large as Great Danes.

Ethiopia is under survey of many nations now. This fabulous plateau is known to too many Europeans; its excellent—well-nigh undreamed of—richness for agriculture is common knowledge. It is not possible for it to remain aloof from European penetration.

Yet no one here was willing to predict tonight just what form Ethiopia will eventually give to Article XVI. The covenant prescribes the breaking of all trade and financial relations and possible prohibition of intercourse between Italy and all other nations of the League.

No Blockade Seen. Response to the question believed only the severance of trade and financial relations—and not a blockade—would be the first resort. Indeed, no one here believed the latter step would be determined upon without the greatest of difficulty.

But Great Britain, it was understood, is prepared to insist firmly on action.

To all practical purposes, it was said in informed quarters, financial relations with Italy are already severed. Greaking off of trade relations without some step to enforce this action, might not affect Italy materially for months—if ever.

This line of British determination coincided with authoritative statements that the United Kingdom will not recognize or consent to any Italian action in Ethiopia.

There have been unconfirmed reports of such proposals, supposedly may lift embargo.

At the same time some sections of the press predicted Great Britain would lift her arms embargo on Ethiopia when the cabinet meets Wednesday.

There were unconfirmed reports that the cabinet might consider suspending the embargo on Ethiopia on October 29 in view of the international situation.

Some were visibly cheered by Geneva evidence that the united front of nations is holding together.

They refrained carefully from any commitments in the note from France, giving a favorable reply to the British request for military co-operation in the Mediterranean "under a condition of reciprocity."

Some diplomatic circles, nevertheless, reflected a distinct feeling of disappointment at the careful words in which the note was phrased.

These observers noted that the French reply, defining conditions under which France would undertake to back up Great Britain from attacks of a third covenant-breaking state, might not in the final analysis be acceptable here.

These conditions, it was said, were designed to make it clear that the future cases where this nation might desire freedom of action.

However, the practical effect of the French reply was to give the League of Nations a more authoritative quarters because the League in the League covenant, which it was designed to cover, was definitely closed.

Officials were quick to point out that the League covenant, now is entitled to the mutual support of France in the case of an Italian attack, regardless of what the French might say.

Indications Great Britain is preparing for action were seen in unusual foreign activity and in a conference between Sir Samuel Hoare, the foreign secretary, and Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin.

The cabinet meeting Wednesday night will be preceded on Monday by a meeting of defense ministers, who since mid-August have been in constant touch.

BRITAIN TO CO-OPERATE IN DEFENSE OF GAINS

Cabinet Expected To Lift Embargo on Ethiopia at Wednesday Session.

LONDON, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Great Britain stands prepared to work at Geneva for the quickest and fullest penalties possible against Italy under Article XVI of the League of Nations covenant, authoritative sources said tonight.

This nation hopes the other members of the League are prepared to act likewise, these sources said.

Great Britain, far from being awed or frightened by the League council's adoption of a committee indictment against Italy, is ready to do her full part in carrying out the joint responsibility.

Yet no one here was willing to predict tonight just what form Ethiopia will eventually give to Article XVI. The covenant prescribes the breaking of all trade and financial relations and possible prohibition of intercourse between Italy and all other nations of the League.

No Blockade Seen. Response to the question believed only the severance of trade and financial relations—and not a blockade—would be the first resort. Indeed, no one here believed the latter step would be determined upon without the greatest of difficulty.

But Great Britain, it was understood, is prepared to insist firmly on action.

To all practical purposes, it was said in informed quarters, financial relations with Italy are already severed. Greaking off of trade relations without some step to enforce this action, might not affect Italy materially for months—if ever.

This line of British determination coincided with authoritative statements that the United Kingdom will not recognize or consent to any Italian action in Ethiopia.

There have been unconfirmed reports of such proposals, supposedly may lift embargo.

At the same time some sections of the press predicted Great Britain would lift her arms embargo on Ethiopia when the cabinet meets Wednesday.

ITALIANS CONSOLIDATE IN DEFENSE OF GAINS

reported massing in the mountains to the south of Aduwa.

Crude roads swarmed with reserves, moving up to the front established Sunday when the blackshirt hordes poured proudly through the gates of Aduwa to blot out the shame of the 38-year-old landmark of Italian defeat.

Wary lest the crafty ruses of Emperor Haile Selassie order a sudden counterattack on Aduwa, the Italians established strong outposts.

Planes kept a constant watch for the enemy from the sky.

An exchange of dispatches from the northern Italian armies reported fierce fighting in the hills on the eastern Tigre front, southeast of Adigrat. The third Italian army, said the dispatches, inflicted severe punishment on the foe after meeting stubborn resistance.

New Conflict Ahead. The Ethiopian concentration to the south was reported "some distance" from Aduwa. From the reports of scouts, many believed the advancing Italian army might meet its first great conflict in the vicinity of Makale, 60 miles southeast of here.

It was the right Italian column, under General Maravigna, that won the defeat of Aduwa and took this city. The central column, under General Pirzio-Biroli, won high praise by its capture of Enticico and the surrounding mountain chain, while General Santini's left column seized Adigrat and the adjacent area.

The fierce native troops of General Pirzio-Biroli climbed the hostile crags to a 10,000-foot altitude to take Amba-Oghuer, with a frontal attack under General Dalmazzo and a flank movement by General Pezenti.

One hundred Ethiopians, none of them regular troops, were taken prisoner in the seizure of the strongly garriooned village. Four battalions of blackshirts reinforced the native Eritrean troops.

Cavalry for Liaison. Cavalry troops were used to considerable advantage between Aduwa and Enticico, especially for liaison work.

Swift tanks, utilized to keep casualties to the minimum, poured into the battle line. Because of the careful use of mechanized units in the advance, Italian deaths in the siege of Aduwa were next to none, while some reports said 1,000 to 2,000 Ethiopians had perished in the defense of the town against ground and aerial bombardment.

Ethiopian warriors estimated by the Italians at 7,000 defended the forts before Dori, Tacla and Amba Bessa before they were driven out by the blackshirt artillery.

At Addis Ababa, where Emperor Haile Selassie was preparing to lead an army of 120,000 north of his capital, Ethiopian authorities considered the Italian occupation of Aduwa and Adigrat was accomplished without resistance. Ethiopians, they said, evacuated the towns in pre-conceived, orderly fashion.

Ethiopia's forces, it was stated, plan a stand in impregnable mountains 40 miles south of Aduwa.

(Aduwa) was also an entirely unconfirmed report, at Addis Ababa that Aduwa had been recaptured in a vicious counterattack and that five Italian officers had been taken prisoner.

Along the line of their advance the Italian troops met a generally cordial reception from civil populations, but they found some coldness at points where retiring Ethiopian military chiefs had instructed the population to be passive resistance to the invaders.

When the Italians entered Aduwa, one regiment after the other marched through the streets with banners and drums. Much of the populace gathered in the public square.

There, headed by local priests, they made acts of submission.

Some villages the natives bore gifts of wheat or other foodstuffs to the soldiers, presenting these with low bows.

War Raging on Three Ethiopian Fronts

This map shows the location of the principal fighting on three fronts in the Italian conquest of Ethiopia. In the extreme north, the invaders seized Aduwa and made ready to advance on Makale, 20 miles to the south, where a major battle was expected. Meanwhile, another Italian army was assembled at Musau Ali, apparently bent on seizing the one railroad leading to Addis Ababa, the capital. Far to the south, the army from the Italian Somaliland marched northward, bombing towns near the Dolo frontier. Associated Press map.

Here Is Article XII Violated by Italy

By The Associated Press. Article XII of the covenant of the League of Nations, which the council's committee of six found Italy had violated, follows:

"The members of the League agree that if there should arise between them any dispute likely to lead to a rupture, they will submit the matter either to arbitration or to inquiry by the council and they agree in no case to resort to war until three months after the award by the arbitrators or the report by the council."

"In any case under this article the award of the arbitrators shall be made within a reasonable time and the report of the council shall be made within six months after the submission of the dispute."

2,000,000 tons under what was needed for peninsular consumption.

In 1933 the crop was greater than 30,000,000 quintals.

Admittedly, this was a banner year, but statisticians said the only reason its level of production was not maintained was because Mussolini adopted his own theory of "crop production" and refused to let the nation deplete itself on wheat at the expense of other farm production.

They also recalled Il Duce had promised through his experts more and more wheat to be sown for wheat, which will bring production up to the consumption point within a couple of years.

As to the meat for her African armies, Italy has contracts with Argentina, which, it was felt here, will not be lost because of the political developments. Statisticians said Uruguay is ready to ship increased tonnage of chilled beef to Italy. Brazil, a non-member of the League, can send her meat, rubber, coffee, sugar and, after its recent development, cotton.

Similar advances toward self-sufficiency have been effected in other agricultural pursuits.

COUNTY AFFAIRS QUIZ RESUMES WEDNESDAY

Longino, Five Others Said To Be on Subpoena List
in Probe.

Six or more persons and the records of several business concerns in Fulton county are expected to be subpoenaed by a special grand jury committee investigating the county commissioners when it meets at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Although H. G. King, chairman of the nine-man probing group, did not name the witnesses to be summoned, it was considered certain that among them will be A. P. Smith, Fred Woodall, M. R. Redwine, S. R. Young, J. H. Longino, and Miss Hazel Wright, all of whom were named by Commissioner Edwin F. Johnson in charges he made against Commissioner George F. Longino last Wednesday before King's committee.

The records of the A. P. Smith Insurance Company, Longino and Smith, Inc., Anthony Buick, Inc., and the General Motors Acceptance Corporation, probably will be requested by the committee.

Johnson charged five offenses to Longino at the meeting last week and presented the grand jury with photostatic copies of county records and correspondence between Longino and some of the persons named, Miss Wright was employed by the county commission in 1934 as secretary to the chairman, the position then held by Longino.

Commissioner Longino, leader of the minority faction, has flatly denied the Johnson charges and announced that he will make proper answer at the proper time. He termed the accusations a "smoke screen" thrown up by Johnson, leader of the majority faction, whom Longino accused of waste and extravagance in expenditures of county money.

Chairman King said evidence on these charges is to be studied and that by next week he hoped to have the report of his committee ready for presentation to the grand jury as a whole. Following that, the five county commissioners will be called before the entire grand jury.

Talmadge Backs Forget-Me-Not Campaign

U. S. FILES TAX CLAIM AGAINST LEAF FORTUNE

Government Seeks $8,500-
000 From Estate of Late
Smith Reynolds.

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., Oct. 7. (AP)—The federal government has filed a claim with the Guaranty Trust Company, of New York, temporary administrator of the estate of Smith Reynolds, for estate taxes of $8,500,000, it was learned here today.

The Guaranty Trust Company was named administrator of the tobacco fortune heir's estate in a purported will filed in New York. The federal tax claim was made, however, irrespective of whether the New York will is valid or not.

Written while he was a minor and prior to his marriage to Libby Holman, the will left virtually all Reynolds' estate to his brother, R. J. Reynolds, and his sisters, Mrs. Charles Babcock and Mrs. Henry W. Bazley.

A settlement based upon the contention Reynolds died intestate is now before the North Carolina supreme court for approval.

Reynolds' estate has been estimated in the neighborhood of $30,000,000.

FORGET-ME-NOTS APPROVED BY F.D.R.

President Indorses Campaign To Help Disabled
Veterans of World War.

President Roosevelt has expressed his approval of the Forget-Me-Not campaign of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War, to be held here Friday. The President, in a letter to M. A. Harlan, national commander of the D. A. V., said:

"I am pleased to add my endorsement to the Forget-Me-Not campaign. There is every reason to believe that the representatives of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War, trained as they are in applications of federal laws dealing with veteran relief, have been of material assistance to veterans and their dependents in developing and presenting claims for relief from the government."

A copy of the letter came to Cecil R. Hall, state commander, simultaneously with others from Governor Talmadge and John M. Slaton Jr., manager of the veterans' administration at Hospital 48, in which they also assured support of the campaign. The Governor pointed out that the D. A. V. is an organization officially recognized by the Veterans' Administration.

Mrs. Henry M. Nichols is chairman of a committee which is to sell flowers on the streets Friday, according to Mr. Hall. Approximately 1,000 persons, members of civic organizations and local clubs, have promised to sell forget-me-nots. Funds will be used both for direct relief to needy veterans and for maintenance of a rehabilitation officer, Mr. Hall stated.

FIRE PREVENTION SCHOOL PLANNED

First Session To Be Held at Auditorium Tomorrow
Afternoon.

A fire prevention school for building engineers, watchmen and janitors will be sponsored in the old city auditorium by the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, American District Telegraph Company, Southeastern Underwriters' Association and the Atlanta Fire Department, it was announced yesterday. Classes will be held at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, with other sessions scheduled for Tuesday, October 15, and Thursday, October 17.

Loss of property by fire has been checked considerably by cities sponsoring fire prevention schools, according to S. C. Nolan, chairman of the fire prevention committee of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce. The per capita loss of Atlantans so far this year is 83 cents, with the total loss being $225,000, he said.

A group of capable instructors will lecture at the three sessions of the school, and certificate will be awarded every man who completes the course, Mr. Nolan said.

At the session tomorrow afternoon, Chief O. J. Parker will tell the aims of the school, and Harry Phillips, assistant fire marshal, will explain the work of the fire prevention bureau.

P. W. Smith, engineer of the underwriters' association, will speak on "Fire Prevention Features." R. T. Meadows, of the American District Telegraph Company, will speak on "The Duties of Watchmen."

First aid treatment, automatic systems and the duty of the public will be discussed by engineers and officials of the fire department at the other sessions.

Governor Talmadge yesterday officially declared this week fire prevention week.

"Our country's annual fire loss for the past 10 or 12 years has averaged $400,000,000 and between 10,000 and 15,000 lives are lost," the proclamation read. "The fire loss is not paid by insurance companies, it is an indirect tax on the people of every community."

Soybean growing in the United States has increased a hundredfold since 1907, from 50,000 acres in that year to more than 5,000,000 acres in 1935.

BANK VICE PRESIDENT HEADS CHEST DIVISION

Sherrard Kennedy, of First National, Takes Charge of Advance Gifts.

Organization of the advance gifts division, front line of the army of volunteer workers in the Community Chest campaign, was under way today following the acceptance of the chairmanship by Sherrard Kennedy, vice president of the First National Bank.

Pointing to the crisis faced by the local community in caring for those who must depend on their own neighbors for necessities, Kennedy said his division would be ready to take the field in a short time to begin active advance work.

His appointment was announced by Julian Boehm, general chairman of the campaign that gets under way November 15.

Withdrawal of the federal government from the field of direct relief, leaving the responsibility on the local communities, has created an emergency, Kennedy pointed out.

Local Welfare Problem.

"This is no problem that we can consider calmly and pass on to someone else," Kennedy said. "Because the people whose welfare is involved are the people we meet on the streets, the people we've known all these years that that we're going to live with in the years to come."

"The federal government has declared positively that we must take care of these people. All the resources of the federal government are concentrated on giving them jobs.

"If they can't work because of ill health or lack of training, they become our charge. If we need things a job won't provide we've got to supply them."

"More gifts of food and shelter and clothing are not going to care for this need. We are up against an emergency that strikes far deeper.

Friendly Hand Needed.

"There are people who bear the scars of the past distressing years, who need a friendly hand to make them self-respecting and self-sustaining again. There are families to be kept intact, children whose character must be strengthened, aged and helpless and sick to be cared for.

"We cannot meet this need with material things only. This is the principle of the Community Chest which prevent as they cure, build as they minister.

"Unless we do this we have done nothing permanent."

"The advance gifts division has a heavy task. Our job is to carry the story to men and women who must be leaders in making this work possible. From them must come not only the greater part of the money, but moral support and an example in giving as well.

"I do not know how much money will be needed. The Chest administrators and the budget committee are working on that now, studying the demands of the needy. The figures they set will represent the absolute minimum of human needs.

"We must take that figure and raise it, if we care about the future of our community."

NEW LUXURY IN AIR FOR ATLANTA LINE

Delta To Install Lockheed
Skyliners Soon on Atlanta-to-Dallas Route.

The utmost in air-travel luxury and safety will be provided for patrons of the Delta Air Lines between Atlanta and Dallas as soon as delivery of the new all-metal 10-passenger Lockheed Electra transport skyliners can be obtained, it was announced yesterday by Leigh C. Parker, general traffic manager of the system, in Atlanta.

Five of the new ships, embodying all improvements known to the industry, will be provided on the Delta Air Lines. The skyliners will have sound-proof cabins, running water and two-way radio telephone communication among the many facilities. The first of the new fleet will be delivered about December 1, it is expected.

Carrying a pilot and co-pilot, the ships take the power to take off in a run of only 15 seconds covering 900 feet. The climb is at the rate of 1,140 feet a minute.

The new ships can attain a maximum speed of 206 miles an hour at an altitude of 5,000 feet and the cruising speed with only 75 per cent of the horsepower is 185 miles an hour at 5,000 feet and 195 miles an hour at 11,400 feet.

Operation of the airliners will enable the Delta Air Lines to inaugurate considerably faster schedules, Mr. Parker said.

Every possible instrument has been included for the safe and efficient operation of the ships. Many of the instruments are not ordinarily included on transport planes.

Similar skyliners are now in operation on Eastern Air Lines, Northwest Air Lines and Braniff Airways and have met with enthusiastic reception from travelers. The planes carry twin power plants, either of which is capable of sustaining the ship in flight. Controllable pitch propellers and airbrakes are among the many improvements provided.

DETROIT MEETING DRAWS ENGRAVERS

Five Atlantans Will Leave
This Morning; Bellamy
One of Speakers.

Five Atlantans, prominent in the field of photo-engraving, will leave this morning for Detroit to attend the thirty-ninth annual convention of the American Photo-Engravers' Association.

They are: Henry W. Grady and John S. McDonald, of the Southern Engraving Company; George Lennin, of the Photo-Process Engraving Company; Lloyd Bellamy, of the Journal Engraving Company, and Norman Wrigley, of the Wrigley Engraving Company.

Mr. Bellamy will read a paper on and lead the discussion of fair trade practices before the convention Friday. A plan for a $500,000 advertising campaign for photo-engraving and letter press printing will be laid before the convention by the executive committee, of which Mr. Grady is a member, having served for six years. At least 800 delegates are expected.

Study Course Planned.

WEST POINT, Ga., Oct. 7.—(AP)—Dr. T. W. Tippet, state secretary of the Sunday school department of the Georgia Baptist Association, is scheduled to conduct a study course beginning tomorrow and closing Thursday night in the First Baptist church.

TIRED and PEPPLESS

No wonder so many of us get up in the morning feeling as tired as when we went to bed—no wonder the world looks blue, if your stomach is full of a thing like bile, rancid vinegar, your food doesn't do you much good. You get what comes from a sour fermenting mass. You can't help but lose strength, get nervous and feel exhausted all the time. If this acid gets over into the bowels, it upsets their action and you get constipated. Then toxic poisons get into the blood and start a lot of things like headaches, rheumatic pains, bad skin, etc. Don't take salts or purgatives to clean out this sourness— they flush out vital body fluids and leave your system dry and raw irritated membranes and helps stop the making of more burning acid. You get RELIEF at once from gas and acid indigestion. Take Placidin regularly for a short time and you'll soon rejoice at the astonishing return of vigor.

LIVESTOCK INDUSTRY
SEEN AS AID TO SOUTHVeterinarians at Albany
Meeting Boost Hog,
Cattle Growing.

ALBANY, Ga., Oct. 7.—(AP)—The salvation of the south lies in development of the livestock industry, veterinarians attending the 28th annual convention of the Georgia State Veterinary Association said here today.

Better prices for meat have helped greatly to increase interest in production of livestock, and beef and hog growers have been encouraged to raise better grades of livestock, the visitors said.

A profit can always be made on livestock, said Dr. R. O. Barnes, of Claxton, one of the veterinarians.

Dr. B. E. Carlisle, of Camilla, said more fat cattle are being marketed from Mitchell county than ever before in its history. Improved marketing conditions have been of great assistance in bringing about this situation, he said.

Since cattle have to be fed only two months out of the year in this section, south Georgia is considered ideal for cattle raising, said Dr. Gail Toliver, of Albany.

Farmers are learning that cattle of better grades can be fattened cheaper than scrub cattle, which formerly were seen in this section, he said. "Scrub cattle are now being cleared out of herds. A long grazing season and an abundance of feedstuffs make this section ideal for cattle raising and farmers are realizing it."

The veterinarians discussed the livestock situation between sessions of the convention which opened today with Dr. W. D. Martin, of Albany, president, in the chair.

Paper on Typhus.
Dr. T. F. Sellers, chief of laboratory of the Georgia State Department of Health, was scheduled to make an address. He was unable to attend, however, because he is attending a convention of the American Public Health Association, in Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

In a paper prepared for delivery at the meeting here, Dr. Sellers discussed progress in combating endemic typhus fever.

Stating the disease is communicable "from rat to man by the rat flea," and is not readily communicable from man to man, Dr. Sellers said "any while control measures hinge on elimination of rats."

He urged rat-proofing of buildings. Asking co-operation of state veterinarians in instructing the public of the infectious danger of rats, Dr. Sellers said the State Department of Health expects a federal grant for use in a state-wide educational campaign against typhus fever.

Another speaker on the program was Dr. H. B. Raffensperger, of the United States Zoological Division, Washington, D. C. His subject was "Parasitic Infection of Swine."

Other speakers on the program were: Dr. J. L. Miller, of Columbus; Dr. W. D. Martin, Albany, president of the association; Dr. C. C. Rife, Atlanta; Dr. R. D. Carr Jr., Thomasville; Dr. Joe L. Johnson, Sylvester, and W. J. Collins, mayor of Albany.

Officers will be elected and 1936 meeting place will be selected at a business session scheduled for tomorrow morning.

Speakers on tomorrow's program are: Dr. E. Carlisle, Camilla; Dr. R. S. Fuller, Quitman; Dr. J. L. Smalley, Dublin, and Dr. C. J. Houston, Tifton.

EPISCOPAL SESSION
OPENS AT ST. SIMONS

BRUNSWICK, Ga., Oct. 7.—(AP)—A conference of the clergy of the Episcopal diocese of Georgia opened at Camp Reese, St. Simon's Island, tonight and will continue until Thursday morning.

The conference was called by Rt. Rev. Middleton Barwell, who on October 1, assumed authority as bishop coadjutor of the diocese. Bishop F. E. Reese retains the title of bishop, but Bishop Barwell, as bishop coadjutor, has charge of administrative duties.

The opening of the conference of clergy tonight was more in the form of a welcome to the new clergy. Only a few business matters were handled, but routine work will be started tomorrow morning. It was stated practically all of the clergy of the diocese was in attendance. He will preach at St. Mark's Episcopal church Thursday night and will remain here through Sunday.

A congregational assembly to meet the bishop will be held at the church Thursday night.

American Girls Charm
Four Foreign Students

ATHENS, Ga., Oct. 7.—(AP)—American girls, cars, kindergartens and football have made a great impression on four foreign transfer students attending University of Georgia.

Louis Deroche, of Dijon, France; Emilio Puggi, of Florence, Italy; Herbertus Scheibe, of Dresden, Germany; and Herbert Sonthoff, of Berlin, all seem most impressed with the girls.

As Deroche put it, American girls are "very pretty, easier to get acquainted with than the French girls, and are even more smartly dressed."

Pucci, whose full name is N. H. Il Marchese Emilio Pucci di Baronto, and whose hobby is skiing on Italy's trails in international contests, went even further.

"American girls are the most beautiful girls and they make the best wives. I don't know whether it is their superior intelligence, or what, but they know how to make their husbands happy."

Scheibe said he was astonished at the number of cars, kindergartens and session of university students. Deroche suspects the cars are not all paid for.

Each of the students speaks English, but with an accent.

TAYLOR COUNTY OPENS

Chief Speaker at Exercises.

BUTLER, Ga., Oct. 7.—(AP)—Taylor county's new courthouse, one of the handsomest in the state, was dedicated here today at elaborate exercises at which Justice S. Price Gilbert, of the state supreme court, was chief speaker.

Justice Gilbert, who once presided over the courts of the Chattahoochee circuit, of which Taylor county is a part, dedicated the building which "will be the pride of the county and will be a credit to the state."

The building, which was built at a cost of $100,000, is a two-story structure of brick and stone, with a central tower and a large porch.

The building was dedicated by Justice Gilbert, who presided over the exercises. He was joined by other judges and officials of the state.

SOIL EROSION PROJECT
STARTED AT LA GRANGE

LAGRANGE, Ga., Oct. 7.—Ten more men have been added to the working crews of the Chattahoochee soil conservation project, according to H. E. Lacy, engineer in charge. This brings the total now at work to 50, and this number is to be increased in the next two or three weeks.

The work at present is confined to gully control, pending the arrival from Washington of government equipment in the way of tools, trucks, concrete and other materials.

Two government soil experts, H. O. Hoepfel and R. S. Montgomery, have about completed a survey of the Chattahoochee watershed. Offices for the project have been set up in the LaGrange Bank building, and a warehouse leased for housing trucks, tools and materials.

WOMAN BADLY BURNED
IN BLAZE AT MACON

MACON, Ga., Oct. 7.—(AP)—Three fires in which a woman was badly burned, a residence destroyed and a schoolhouse damaged accompanied low temperatures in Macon this morning.

Mrs. C. J. Durham, wife of the city-milk inspector, was gravely burned when her dress caught fire in front of an open grate in her home while she was dressing her children.

She was taken to a hospital, where it was reported that, while her injuries were serious, she probably would recover.

Mrs. John Rachel's residence on Houston street was razed by a blaze and the Fort Hill negro school in Taylor county caught fire but pupils were marched to safety and the fire extinguished after slight damage.

The dedication followed the official opening of the regular October term of Taylor superior court over which Judge C. Frank McLaughlin presided. The spacious courtroom was filled to overflowing, and many were turned away, unable to find space.

Walter E. Steed, mayor of Butler and president of the Taylor County Bar Association, was master of ceremonies. He introduced the supreme court justice.

Other distinguished visitors participating in the program included Judge Gus Howard, of Atlanta, and George P. Monroe, of Columbus, both former judges of the Chattahoochee circuit; Wilbur Murney and George C. Palmer, of Columbus; Warren Grice, of Macon, native of Taylor county and former attorney-general of Georgia; Solicitor-General A. Jones Perryman, of Columbus.

The new building was formally presented in an address by H. Riley, chairman of the board of county commissioners.

County officials and occupants of the building aided in the welcoming of the throng which gathered for the exercises. Those whose offices are in the building include: Thelma Jarrell, clerk of court; L. T. Peed, registrar; G. A. Rogers, tax commissioner; W. T. Rust, county school superintendent; R. P. McGuffin, sheriff; W. M. Brown, H. Riley and G. W. Picklen, county commissioners; G. C. Diehl, agricultural agent, and Miss Willie Leggett, home demonstration agent.

Women civic leaders of Butler entertained the visitors at a luncheon. Construction work on the courthouse was started last fall, after bonds for $20,000 for the purpose had been voted and sold.

Work was done mainly with convict labor, the state prison commission operating, under a superintendent employed by the county commission.

AS MAYOR OF MOULTRIE

MOULTRIE, Ga., Oct. 7.—(AP)—J. Frank Norman was re-elected mayor of Moultrie for the second successive time when he rolled up a majority of approximately two to one over two opponents. A record of 1,440 ballots were cast.

Mayor Norman was opposed by J. E. Ladson, a lumberman, and Colonel Smith A. Harris, a retired army officer.

Evans Reynolds, on the basis of complete but unofficial returns, seemed to have retained his council seat, but in another council race, councilman Wiley Fletcher, incumbent, apparently was defeated by Wiley Blevins, J. H. Shivers was the fourth man in the race for the two council seats.

Scenic Road.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Restoration by President Roosevelt of a $6,000,000 allotment for extending the Shenandoah-Great Smoky Mountain National Parkway in Virginia and North Carolina was announced today by the Public Works Administration.

The new allotment was made from old PWA funds to replace the one impounded last winter to provide funds for the relief administration.

Officials said units of construction would be usable immediately, besides serving as connections between existing highways or cities, and lead toward completion of a continuous 500-mile scenic parkway between the proposed Shenandoah and Great Smoky Mountains National Parks.

INTEREST IN FORESTRY
GROWS AT UNIVERSITYWith Graduates in Great Demand, School Maps
Busy Program.

ATHENS, Ga., Oct. 7.—(AP)—The graduates in great demand, the forestry division of the College of Agriculture has risen to the importance of a school of the University of Georgia proper.

Already busy with its fall work, the school, designated by the board of regents of the University System of Georgia as the George Foster Peabody School of Forestry of the University of Georgia, has mapped a busy program of activity for its students.

Forestry first assumed a post of importance in the curriculum of the university under the sponsorship of Peabody in 1905. The unit became known as the forestry division of the College of Agriculture.

This summer the regents made the division a full-fledged school, on an equal footing with other schools of the university.

The school also has access to the Okefenokee, Fla., national forest, and a camp at Watson's Springs, where students pursue their laboratory work.

A nursery, with a capacity of 1,000,000 trees, is maintained by the school. Trees not required for laboratory work are sold at actual cost to Georgians interested in reforesting their lands.

G. D. Markworth, former professor of forestry and head of the old forestry division, is director of the new school.

"Starting as a very small department of the agricultural college, the department of forestry has had a phenomenal growth until today it has the largest enrollment of any school on the Agricultural College hill," he said.

"We have this year 194 students taking forestry courses."

Federal government reforestation projects, and other forest programs have caused a great demand for graduates of the school. More foresters are sought, in fact, than the school fire extinguished after slight damage.

ATLANTA, GA., OCT. 8, 1935.

THE CARNAGE KEEPS ON

With the passing of another week-end come the reports of a continuation of high revelry on the public thoroughfares by the forces of death and destruction.

In Atlanta two persons were killed, several others are at the point of death and a score or more of men, women and children are in hospitals or under the care of physicians in their homes as the result of reckless driving.

In every section of the state the Saturday afternoon and Sunday holidays away from business cars brought the crashing of cars, followed by the means of the dead and dying.

In the United States more than 400 persons were killed and thousands injured because those who operate automobiles in America have not learned that they are toying with sudden and horrible death when they drive in a dangerous or reckless manner.

That the appalling toll being taken by highway and street accidents is unnecessary is revealed by the sharp decrease in accidents in communities where the public has been awakened to a realization of the needlessness of losses in life and property.

It is to bring the same awakening to those who drive in Atlanta and Georgia that The Constitution's Safety Council has been organized.

More than 25,000 Georgians have already signed the Safe Driving pledge of the council; the P. T. A. and other organizations have endorsed its purpose, and business concerns operating large fleets of trucks have joined in the effort to save the lives that are being squandered on the streets and highways of the state day in and day out the year around.

The gory record of the past week-end—filling hospitals and undertaking parlors with wrecked humanity and garages with battered automobiles—is ghastly evidence that the time has come that some way must be found to make drivers stop driving recklessly, or else adjust automobiles so that they cannot be operated at a dangerous speed.

The toll in death, suffering and sorrow attributable to the comparatively few drivers who care for neither their own safety or that of others, must be brought to an end.

656,000 VIEW THE FAIR

With 656,000 persons going through the entrance gates of the 1935 Southeastern Fair, a new all-time record for attendance upon Atlanta's annual exhibition was set this year.

The unprecedented size of the crowds that thronged the fair grounds during the eight days in which it was operated is shown in the fact that the total attendance equals more than a fifth of the entire population of Georgia, and that the daily average was in excess of 80,000.

The average daily attendance on the nationally advertised San Diego Pacific Exposition has been less than 30,000. The largest single day's attendance at San Diego has been 74,000, on Labor Day, while the largest attendance on the Southeastern mounted to 112,000 on Friday, with the smallest day's attendance totaling 47,000.

The record-breaking attendance upon the Southeastern is due to the able, and businesslike direction of the fair by President Mike Benton and his associates. The steady increase in the size of the fair and the annual attendance under their guidance is a direct result of the improvement of the fair itself, both from an instructive and entertainment viewpoint, and of the careful preliminary work done for months before the opening of the exhibition.

The remarkable attendance record set by the 1935 fair conclusively proves that President Benton and his co-workers are giving the public what is wanted—and, still more important, a worth-while exhibition.

It has taken liberally of the time and effort of the group of Atlanta businessmen headed by Mr. Benton and they are entitled to full recognition of their unselfish contribution to the welfare of the community.

NO WAY TO SETTLE ANYTHING

The second whipping by a masked band of an official of a textile mill in Hall county is a challenge to the law enforcement officials of the county to take steps that will prevent the recurrence of such an offense against law and decency.

Whipping by masked bands is another type of lynching and, at best, is an unjustifiable and un-American way in which to secure redress for alleged wrongs.

The Constitution is not acquainted with the details of any grievances that may exist in the mill community involved in these whippings, but whatever they may be, whether real or imaginary, no satisfactory adjustment can be reached through recourse to masked whippings.

It has been made clear that the Federation of Labor not only has had nothing to do with these whippings but that it condemns such methods of adjudicating grievances, or of retaliation against any real or supposed mistreatment.

The mill at which this offense has twice occurred has invested $4,000,000 in Hall county and it is entitled to the full protection of the law in the operation of its plant.

If there are any just grievances, they should, and can, be adjusted in a legal manner.

Moslems Are Restless. (By Mail.)
The Moslems, of whom there are three million in the Abyssinian frontier provinces, I hear, are not taking the situation in the same spirit of resignation as the Christian population. They are restless and the Abyssinian government is having some difficulty in holding them back. One of their chiefs, Ras Menon Tawrit, I learned, has been to Addis Ababa to urge the Negus to allow him to attack in Britre and inflict an immediate lesson on the Italians. The Emperor flew into a rage, I was told, by one who has been present at the interview and told Ras Menon Tawrit that his duty was exactly the opposite, namely, to keep his tribesmen as far away from the borders as possible, as Italy desires nothing better than frontier incidents to show the world how barbarous the Abyssinians are.

Intrigues Denied.
Rumors that Moslem princes in Abyssinia are secretly planning to aid the Italians in the event of an invasion, are dubbed "foolish prattle emanating from Rome" by the officials at the foreign office here. There is no way, as yet to check upon this, this is a land of enormous distances and practically no roads. A crowd of newspapermen and lensmen sitting around waiting for something to happen and nowhere to go. And more coming in every day.

But such is Abyssinia: bloody harpies in one part; warriors tramping with impatience in another, praying for something to happen, and solemn intrigues in Addis Ababa. A land of violent contrasts!

The Negus Smiles.

This morning I drove to the foreign office bungalow and found everybody in fine fettle and excellent good humor. "What was the news?" The news was good. The news was excellent. Everybody chuckled and smiled.

"Well what is it? Does Abyssinia get loan in London or what?" I asked.

"Yes, that, too, the negotiations are well on the way. The outcome looks favorable."

"Does that make you all feel good?" I insisted.

"Not that alone. Something else has happened!" I was told mysteriously.

"Well what can it be?" I looked puzzled from one dignitary to the other.

"The emperor smiled this morning," one official announced.

"Did he? I am glad to hear it. Why did he smile, though?" I asked again.

"His Majesty smiled when he heard that the Italian had taken another drop on the world-exchange."

"Is that so?" said I. "What does it mean?"

"England's defending us!" they explained.

Good reason to smile, if true! (Copyright, 1935, for The Constitution.)

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON.

Roosevelt Trend EN ROUTE SAN DIEGO TO NEW ORLEANS.
President Roosevelt would be re-elected today. Anyone sifting the surface and sub-surface condition through 5,000 miles of country from coast to coast and around to here will reach that conclusion if his mind is unprejudiced. If anti-New Dealers think differently, they are not doing themselves any good by deluding themselves.

But what will happen next year may be another story. Everywhere republicans are bestirring themselves, raising money, getting ready for the hottest opposition campaign this country has seen in a long time. They can get real money from the influential elements in the cities where Mr. Roosevelt's most recent business reassurances have not accomplished their purpose.

With a well-run, well-financed campaign and a good candidate, they stand a fair chance of upsetting democratic domination during the next 12 months. The best-informed democratic leaders know it, and are preparing.

Machine The national democratic machine is as good as advertised, and better. It still is being run in a good state (Iowa, Colorado, California), but the federal government has the money and the political astuteness to do it. In general, the cops connecting Washington with the various state Governors, bosses and dominant political organizations are working smoothly, oiled by public works allotments, federal patronage, relief organizations. It will be very hard to beat.

POPULARITY Yarns you hear about the decline of Roosevelt popularity are true in a general way, but do not tell the whole story.

Everyone knows of the antagonism among city business people, manufacturers, professional people, groups heavily burdened and fearful of the Townsendites, etc. Beyond this, there seems to have been a change of sentiment among white-collar classes. Not that they are against Roosevelt now. They seem to be merely less enthusiastic about him. They no longer cancel engagements to hear his radio speeches. They no longer applaud everything done in Washington.

Their collective state of mind seems to be one of sympathetic searching analysis, without general approbation or disapprobation.

INTEREST That is why there is greater interest in economics and politics than there ever has been. Every shopkeeper will argue economics with you. Every clerk has his own political ideas, and are not necessarily those he reads. The people certainly know more about what is going on in Washington than they ever did, and each has his own view.

Consequently, the decline of interest in Mr. Roosevelt's words seems to indicate only a decline of interest in him personally, but not in his New Deal. That is an important political distinction.

For instance, the newspapers of Mr. Roosevelt's particular path gave little prominence to his speeches on his western trip, although many of those same newspapers, and the New Deal supporters, they displayed relief and tax news from Washington, the Ethiopian situation and even interviews with Mickey Cochrane more prominently than the President's speeches.

That is an accurate reflection of the current interest trend.

RECOVERY Business was 8 to 40 per cent better in the 15 or more communities visited and hastily investigated during this trip. Only one exceptional city was 40 per cent better (San Diego). The average improvement of the western half of the country was found to be about 10 per cent over last year.

This is a far better condition than the Washington figures show. It is due partly to government spending, partly to sectional subsidies by the federal government (AAA, silver). But even beyond those factors, the natural undercurrent of business is definitely fixed and strong, much more so than in the east, where the lagging heavy goods manufacturers are centered.

The depression is physically over, but the trouble is it has not been forgotten. Business people are uncertain, inclined to keep in their shells. Some refuse to tell how good their business is. They prefer to talk in doubts.

If all were suddenly to start talking business up instead of down, an entirely different national feeling would be created without any material change in the basic situation.

PROFITS The outward appearance of the country is excellent. There are few manifestations of depression. Auto traffic is heavy on most highways. Tourists are traveling and spending money. Trains are not generally crowded, but well filled. Few vacant homes or stores are seen in most cities. Businessmen are advertising energetically and competing sharply for business.

Where the existing condition apparently differs most from normal is that, while nearly everyone (the upper three-fourths of the country) is making a little money, profits are not what they were in 1923-25. Furthermore, the high-pressure groups, the promoters who made money out of financing new enterprises, are not now making anything at all. Their wall is loudest.

REBELLION In only one spot was there any evidence of third party coalition sentiment sufficient to be formidable. That was in Colorado. Bi-partisan Al Smith talk was strong there. It will not coalesce. The statement obtained from W. R. Hearst at San Simon accurately sums up the futility of such a movement. "He, an original sponsor of it, said the leading conservative democrats, who could give it momentum, are afraid."

What he also probably meant was that the democrats, displeased with the New Deal, are unwilling to undertake an insurrection, which would only help the republicans. They still think bad democrats are better than good republicans.

ELDERS Similarly there is no prospect of a third party representing the large surge groups, wealth sharers, Coughlinites, Townsends and Epics. Mr. Roosevelt appears to have cut ground from under all these, except possibly the Epics. The old-age crowd probably will exert strong influence in the election next year. They are sufficiently powerful to warrant respect from any candidate for public office. But they do not seem to be led by anyone wise enough to whip them into a separate political entity (comparable to Huey Long, for instance).

Smart republicans are making a bid for their support in California.

SILHOUETTES

I will not attempt, in any event, to pronounce those names Ethiopian.

I really don't care, I hereby declare, a rap for their linguistic scaplan.

That rhyme I admit, is awful, but I am in my poor encyclopedia; if you can do better, don't send me a letter.

But write it to some Ethiopian.

And, if anyone thinks the writer of the above deserves election to New York, let him know by slow torture, they have no basis for argument with me.

Vandalism Scores Again.
One of the most foolish cases of vandalism I've heard of in a long time came to my attention the other day.

There is, in Atlanta, a magnificent old grand piano. Its exact age no one knows, but there is evidence it was used here at least half a century ago.

In those past years it was frequently loaned by the piano company that owned it, for use on the concert platform when various famous artists filled Atlanta engagements.

And, it is true, that piano, were autographs of Adeline Patti, Nellie Melba, the de Roszkes, Sembrich, Schumann, Heink and other vocal immortals of the past.

PACIFISTS AROUSED

By HARRY W. FRANTZ.

United Press Staff Correspondent.

FAIR ENOUGH.
It is still fair enough to West-brook Pegler, whose column of witty comment appears in this space daily, to allow him to spend this week at the World Series in Detroit and Chicago and write his impressions, which will be found on The Constitution's sports pages.

The crash of bombs in Adowa has spurred American pacifists to new efforts on many fronts to mobilize anti-war sentiment.

As the shattering facts of African war recalled the "war to end war," veteran peace workers saw the "need for a united front, with closer organization, larger finances and better defined objectives in attaining the goal of world peace."

The United Press canvassed headquarters of the leading national organizations in Washington and found everywhere strenuous activity in behalf of peace.

Neither the League of Nations covenant nor the United States neutrality law have attracted unanimous support of pacifists, and the senate's rejection of the World Court has been a practical obstacle to sentiment for an international tribunal.

At the National Council for Prevention of War, occupying an old brick house that served as headquarters of General Ulysses S. Grant in 1865, the peace campaign is being organized for sale of $1,000,000 in "peace bonds" to finance the movement.

The council, heartened by endorsement of the program by the general commission on world peace of the Methodist church, is circulating the 16,000 church of that denomination, and also setting up bond sales organizations in many states.

NEUTRALITY ACT LAUDED.
Frederick J. Libby, chairman of the national council, representing 21 national organizations, said he was "profoundly thankful" that the last session of congress approved the neutrality legislation, and asserted that the whole weight of the peace movement will be thrown to the renewal and strengthening of this law at the next session.

Mrs. Mildred S. Olmstead, national organization secretary of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, said that league's meeting this week in Philadelphia probably will adopt an appropriation program.

She held that the African war will convince the world that it cannot have the benefits of peace without paying the price, and held that all nations suffering from war regardless who causes it.

"In the world today you cannot free a state, or you will have the situation that arose in Japan and Italy and may be preparing in Germany," she said. "Strong nations cannot make an inflexible position."

She thought that President Roosevelt should initiate an international movement toward more equitable utilization of the raw materials of the world, and favored an arrangement whereby certain nations without acquiring possession of new territories might acquire a prior and preferential right to the use of indispensable commodities.

CO-OPERATION FAVORED.
Mrs. Kate Trenhold Abrams, personal friend during his lifetime of Woodrow Wilson, and representative of the Washington office of the League of Nations Association, said that the greatest hope for the American peace movement lies in co-operation with the League.

The American Peace society, founded in 1828 and the oldest organization of the kind in the capital, is now under the presidency of John J. Esch, said to be the greatest of the Interstate Commerce Commission, it makes "peace through justice" the keynote of its effort.

Arthur Deerin Call, secretary and chief of the society, said that 85 per cent of its members had favored United States entry in the World Court.

"Our attitude toward the League of Nations is that we wish to see it but we have opposed United States ratification of the covenant, principally because of the provision for the use of force against recalcitrant states. We base our philosophy of international relations on our own union of sovereign and independent states."

"My own judgment is that Italy is not entirely to blame for what is going on in Ethiopia. The situation has developed because of the chaos which statesmen have allowed their government to get into."

"The great misfortune that the League of Nations has paid too much attention to Articles 10, 15 and 16 of the covenant and so little to Article 19, which provides for reconsideration of existing treaties."

CHICAGO, Oct. 7.—(AP)—A terrific explosion, which witnesses said hoisted a six-story paint factory as a giant firecracker, raised a tin can, killed at least eight workers, injured 50 others, and sent a shower of debris over a block-square area today.

Fire officials directing the raking of the debris by crews of pick axmen and others equipped with lifting jacks and acetylene torches—to cut the rough, twisted steel girders—expressed fear the total fatalities might reach a score. They estimated it would take a week to complete a search of the wreckage.

Fire Marshal Michael Corrigan said the loss would be at least $500,000 and might run much higher.

The blast, which was heard for miles on the northwest side, occurred

Tonsil Operation Delays Cutcliffe's Gang Return

Walter Cutcliffe, erstwhile "head man" of the numbers racket in Atlanta, received another stay of his return to the Fulton county chain gang yesterday at the point of a surgeon's knife.

He had his tonsils removed in an operation performed at Georgia Baptist hospital by Dr. Bomar Olds and will be some days recovering and, therefore, some days in returning to his place on the gang.

Cutcliffe was sentenced to the gang on a lottery count. Laid low by a sinus infection, he went to Georgia Baptist several weeks ago at his own expense rather than to Grady hospital. Considerable furor was kicked up until Fulton county authorities announced they knew where he was all the time and didn't have him under guard because they wanted to save money and knew he wouldn't run away.

Shortly before the noon hour in the Glidden Sora Products Company, located in the 1800 block of North Lamar street.

An accumulation of dust or gas was believed by fire fighters to have caused the disaster.

Though a surging fire immediately followed the explosion, the downpour of concrete, bricks and pieces of steel helped extinguish the blaze almost as quickly as it started. Firemen had only to play their hoses over scattered areas of the 30-foot high debris.

Many of the injured were passers-by struck by flying bits of wreckage.
A laundry driver reported he was knocked down by the force of the blast three blocks from the site.

All physicians in the city health department, 15 police squads and all available pieces of the city's fire-fighting equipment participated in the res-jured.

panic-stricken wives and mothers frantic for information about their kin.

ditional county high school building

$20,454, which will be used in the erection of the building.

Old Firetrap for Children Flaming for Fifth Time

Nine children were rushed to safety yesterday afternoon as the juvenile detention home, long known as a fire trap, burst into flames for the fifth time in the last two months. Damage was heavy but Chief O. J. Parker made no immediate estimate. The blaze started in the attic and Smoke and flames are seen billowing out windows and from the roof. The blaze started from a defective flue. Staff photo.

Nine Children Are Led to Safety As Fire Attacks Juvenile Home

Defective Flue Endangers Condemned Fulton County
Institution as Watching Officials Promise Steps To Remove Uninsured Firetrap.

For the fifth time in two months, the Fulton county juvenile detention home, frequently condemned as a fire-trap, was damaged by fire yesterday afternoon.

Nine children housed in the home were led to safety by Miss Marie Poe, and Mrs. A. C. Blackstock, matrons.
Fire Chief O. J. Parker said the blaze started in the attic from a defective flue. He made no estimate of the extensive damage. There is no insurance carried on the building by the county, it was said.

The blaze started in the attic and burned through the roof before it was conquered by firemen after a 30-minute battle. Columns of smoke poured through the windows attracting a large crowd.

The nine children were taken across the street to a tea room during the fire. Later they were assigned to homes for the night by Juvenile Judge Garland M. Watkins.

Plans for a new juvenile detention home will be discussed at the next meeting of the county commission, it was announced, and efforts to obtain money with which to erect a safe, fire-proof building that will adequately care for the needs of the juvenile court, are already under way.

Criticism that the county should continue to house the children in the old building, which has so often been condemned by fire department officials and civic leaders, was expressed by many yesterday following the fifth conflagration in so short a time.

"I simply cannot continue to send children to this detention home," Judge Watkins said. "It is a firetrap and is unsanitary. It does not provide the proper space for segregation of dependents and delinquents of both sexes and colors, which is very necessary in handling juvenile delinquency."

"Last week we housed 39 children in that building one night," he said.
"If this fire had occurred at night with 39 children in the home, many of them could easily have been burned to death."

"We are responsible for the safety of these poor children and we must provide a better home for them."

"It is a shame that Fulton county cannot get money to construct a building which is so obviously needed for the welfare of the city and county," he declared.

Commissioner Edwin F. Johnson, who witnessed the fire, said that plans for the new structure will be brought up at the next county board meeting.

Commissioner J. A. Ragdale, chairman of the juvenile and alms committee, is expected to propose that the county appropriate enough money to supply Fulton's share of a government fund, application for which has already been made.

beverages, flaming dishes and either miliarity by the restaurant workers.

Miss Dowling said men spend more for lunch than women, averaging 60 to 65 cents against 50 cents for the feminine sex but the ladies equalled them at dinner time. Average checks for the evening meal were $1 for both.

The private life of Police Chief T.
O. Sturdivant, as well as his official record, is being studied by a special grand jury committee investigating the police department, it was indicated yesterday as a number of witnesses were interviewed by grand jurors.

Councilman Aubrey Milam, former member of the council police committee, and Louis H. Crawford, special agent of the county commissioners, were two of the persons questioned yesterday, it was understood.

Three additional witnesses appeared voluntarily before the grand jury with specific complaints of misconduct by city policemen, it was understood.

They came in answer to an appeal issued last week by J. G. Barrow, chairman of the probe committee, who requested that anyone having information concerning protection allegedly furnished bootleggers and lottery operators by police come before his committee.

"The response has been satisfactory so far," Barrow said yesterday, in reiterating his request.

"A number have already appeared and others have furnished us valuable information in various ways, but we think that many more citizens could supply additional facts if they wished."

"We want to say that their names and their information will be kept in the utmost secrecy by the grand jury," he declared.

Questions as to the personal habits of Chief Sturdivant were believed to have been asked certain witnesses yesterday by Chairman Barrow and his committees, O. L. Kennedy and J.
T. Bray.

The chief and his former secretary,
Oscar Pendley, were both personally interviewed by the committee last week. Neither would comment on what the juryman asked them.

CHICAGO, Oct. 7.—(AP)—The public has a dozen "pet peeves" when dining, but the ones which make its blood hit the boiling point are "leaning on tables" and "getting its elbows bumped" by waitresses.

This the National Restaurant Association learned from Miss Alice M.

day.

Other annoyances, she said, were:
Neglecting butter, water or bread;
slowness; inattention on the part of

on the part of the waiter, too great

'MISSTATEMENTS' LAID TO HOOVER ON DEBTS

Robinson Accuses Former President of 'Errors' Ranging to 9 Billion.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—(AP)— Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the democratic leader, tonight accused Herbert Hoover of "mis-statements and distortions" in his Oakland speech attacking New Deal spending and policies.

In a statement issued through the democratic national committee, Robinson asserted "Mr. Hoover's statement is what might reasonably have been expected of an expert, deficient in his effort at re-election, who is seeking to get back."

Hoover was en route to New York tonight.

Another democratic spokesman,
Speaker Byrnes, also entered the discussion. He told newspapermen "there is every reason in the world why he should reduce expenditures provided business does its part."

The constitutional issue, he said,
was "just a red herring."

Blitting back at Hoover's speech, Robinson contended it might "be expected that a former president of the United States might have abstained from the misstatements and distortions of the ordinary campaign propagandist."

Robinson said Hoover's "alleged statistics" on the national debt and the deficit "indicate" bookkeeping errors ranging from $5,000,000,000 to $8,000,000,000.

Hoover said expenditures are "running over $8,000,000,000 a year." Robinson declared the budget estimate to show "total expenditures will be $7,752,000,000." Hoover said "the unpaid government obligations which will fall on the taxpayer at the end of the year will be $35,000,000,000." Robinson averred on June 30, 1936, "the total national debt will be approximately $30,724,000,000."

TWO PLEAS FOR LIFE DOCKETED THIS WEEK

The state prison commission this week will conduct public hearings of the applications of two condemned slayers, Chairman E. L. Rainey announced yesterday.

The first application is that of Leander Smith, of Savannah, scheduled to be executed October 21. Assistant Solicitor A. J. Ryan, of the eastern circuit, is here to oppose clemency which will be asked by Shelby Myrick, attorney for Smith. The hearing will be today.

The second death case will be taken up Thursday when the commission will hear from attorneys for George P. McRae, of Canton, sentenced to die
October 18 for the holdup slaying of Virgil Turner, well-known Cherokee county athlete last year.

GAINESVILLE BODY HITS GRIMES ATTACK

GAINESVILLE, Ga., Oct. 7.—The directors of the Gainesville Chamber of Commerce today passed a resolution condemning the attack Saturday night on M. T. Grimes, superintendent of the Chipmunk Manufacturing Company, and who is also president of the Chamber of Commerce.

The resolution was as follows:
"Be it resolved that the directors of the Chamber of Commerce of Gainesville deplore the lawless treatment accorded Mr. M. T. Grimes, superintendent of the Chipmunk mill on Saturday night last and unqualifiedly condemn such misconduct and invite citizens of Gainesville to join in lending their every effort to the suppression of criminal conduct of this kind."

Grimes reported he was beaten by a band of five masked men, but that he was not seriously injured.

A strike at the mill recently was amicably settled and there had been no trouble since.

ROOSEVELT'S CRUISER 'WARS' ON PORTLAND

Presidential Party En Route to Cocos Island, Expected Wednesday.

EN ROUTE WITH PRESIDENT
ROOSEVELT, ABOARD U. S. S.
PORTLAND, AT SEA, Oct. 7.—(AP)
The cruisers Houston and Portland—bearing members of President Roosevelt's party—went to war today in the Pacific under the interested gaze of President Roosevelt. But it was all for practice.

The Houston, with the President aboard, slipped over the western horizon this morning off the coast of Lower Mexico, and the crews of the two navy fighters engaged in "battle"
by long distance range finders.

They trained their powerful guns on each other within firing range, but out of sight. So far as could be determined, the "war" was a draw.

After an hour of fighting, the Houston again pulled alongside the Portland to lead the way on to Cocos island for a two-day stay. Arrival is expected Wednesday morning.

Meanwhile, the President followed radio accounts of national and international affairs from his cabin study.

How OFTEN as boys did we hear that stern warning—"Don't play with fire".
These past few years particularly it would appear that many of us have forgotten this injunction.

A good bank urges economy and thrift, but like any other human action, it can be carried to an extreme. The man who, in a spirit of false economy, reduces or eliminates his Fire Insurance with the remark, "I'll take a chance," is truly playing with fire and the chances are that he will get burned.

In the daily actions of thousands of people—the customers of our bank—may be found the happenings of a nation. If we presume to suggest, it is merely because of what we see and know. If we recommend, it is because we are sincerely interested in the success and the financial security of those whom we are privileged to call our customers.

To them we would say—carry enough Fire Insurance. Your home, your business house, your furniture, your merchandise—they represent years of work and sacrifice—they are present and future security. You are gambling dollars against pennies when you fail to safeguard them against destruction. Don't play with fire!

Goslin's Single in Ninth Gives Detroit 1935 World Series Title

BREAK O'DAY!
By Ralph Mobley

Those Cubs learned a great lesson yesterday: Never pitch to the Goose when there's money on the ball. The Goose brought home his manager, Mickey Cochrane, with the run that won the World Series yesterday and put baseball away for the year.

The Goose always has been a money player and the fact that he had not made a hit all day should not have tempted the Cubs to decide to take a chance with him.

And also the Goose was paying up a debt.

He was about all through at Washington. They were about to let him go when Mickey Cochrane, an old friend, was appointed manager at Detroit. And one of his first acts was to purchase Goose Goslin from the Senators.

The Goose repaid the debt last season but after yesterday he can mark it: "Paid In Full."

And there was another little sidelight to that series.

General Alvin Crowder was on the waiver block last year. No one wanted him. But Cochrane took him.

And this series saw the General come through and win one of those games when the Tigers needed one most.

Tommy Bridges, the tall, lean Tennessean who was once robbed of a no-hit, no-run game by Dave Harris, of the Crackers' outfield staff of this year, won two games.

It was the Goose who laid the golden egg—his hit meant a little more than $1,000 to each of the Tigers who now receive a bit more than $6,000 each as prize money for their play of one week.

And it was Bridges who supplied the iron. When Stan Hack tripled to open the ninth he struck out Jurgens, took French's weak grounder, held Hack at third and threw out the runner and then caused Galan to fly to Goslin.

All winter long they will wonder why Charley Grimm didn't try to squeeze in Hack.

If—if—if—if—all winter long. Which is one reason the game is the great game it happens to be.

WHAT'S WRONG WITH THE COUNTRY?

A lot of our more serious minds are busy wondering what is wrong with our country.

It so happens the World Series, which ran six games, had an attendance of 286,672 and receipts of $1,173,794.

It would seem there is nothing at all wrong with our country except it is daffy about baseball.

CHEERS FOR THE TENNESSEE PLAYERS.

A nice story comes from Knoxville—When the Tennessee football team lost to North Carolina last Saturday by a score of unusually large proportions, the usual mob of morons gathered about the door of the dressing room.

"Bring back Neyland!" was their chant.

Three or four of the enraged football players emerged, banged a few of the morons on their goatees to stretch them out on the autumn sod.

"It wasn't the fault of the coach," said the boys, "we lost the football game by not playing football."

Which story has me up cheering.

Tennessee, with some of the best material in Dixie, had to start some untied and untested men. Their precision and timing wasn't there.

And in addition, the Vols were lucky to beat North Carolina last year. The Tarheels were one of the best in Dixie, the team which beat Georgia soundly. So what is so surprising about their winning this fall?

I hope and trust the Tennessee boys will bust a few more cheap gamblers on the sidelines.

The petty gamblers are the first to squawk. And they were. I hope and trust once more, the ones who got themselves busted on the jaw.

MR. KEEFE SAYS, "I DO."

It was not so many days ago that your reporter finished up a lead in the New Orleans baseball park and took a taxi to the home of Mr. William McGregor Keefe, the esteemed sports editor of the Times-Picayune and for some 20 years an authority on sports.

Mr. Keefe has been, for years, the most eligible bachelor in the ranks of the southern sports reporters. He had a fishing boat with a crew of two, a home of his own and lived a life of ease and luxury. He scornfully disdained any hint of marriage.

This evening at Mr. Keefe's home we gathered in the kitchen. Mr. Keefe's cook was ill in a hospital. But Mr. Keefe was busy at the stove. Within a short time there was ready a succulent and delicious oyster stew. There followed spaghetti, with Mr. Keefe delivering a lecture on the proper method of cooking same, as he dished it up. On top of the plates of spaghetti went slices of beef a la Deutch and the creole dressing in which it is cooked.

We were fairly in the middle of the meal, engaged in the magic of turning plates of spaghetti and beef a la Deutch into newspapermen, when the telephone rang.

Mr. Keefe dashed to the telephone, very smartly for a man of his years, and answered. He then dashed from the house, leaped into his car and roared away.

I looked significantly at Mr. Pete Baird, of the Times-Picayune staff. "Is it serious?" I asked.

"None of us know," said Mr. Baird.

When Mr. Keefe returned I presumed upon a friendship of many years to question him.

"Don't ask absurd question," said Mr. Keefe.

Well, alas and alack, all I can say is that the year 1935 is Cupid's year. Any year which can produce the capitulation of the Messrs. William Alexander at Tech and Mr. Keefe at New Orleans is quite a year.

Readers of this column are acquainted with Mr. Keefe and we all, I am sure, extend to Mr. Keefe and Miss Alice Desroche, who yesterday became Mrs. Keefe, sincere congratulations and best wishes.

Now, if Mr. Keefe will only bring the young lady to Atlanta for a while so that she may escape the miserable New Orleans weather that will be a real gift.

JIM LONDOS TO RETURN.

Mr. Henry Weber is getting ready for a great fall program. He presents an excellent card at the auditorium tonight and he announces a most interesting item—

"Theesa Jeem" Londos has been in training in a hide-away in the mountains out from Los Angeles and is coming back to the rassing wars. And he will make one of his first comebacks in an Atlanta ring.

And the world's champion, Danny O'Mahoney, the Irish Free-Stater, also has agreed to appear here in the next few weeks. Which explains the grin on Mr. Weber's face.

TECH TO STRESS DEFENSIVE PLAY FOR THIS WEEK

Jackets Prepare To Stop Davis and Johnson, Wildcat Backs.

By Jack Troy.

Coch Alex is going to have his Tech Jackets on the defensive for the better part of this week with the Kentucky game coming up on Saturday at Lexington.

Heading that old admonition to beware of Greeks bearing gifts, Coach Alex is preparing to have his boys utterly cautious about letting any Wildcat backs stray around with the football Saturday. Because such boys as Davis and Johnson, Kentucky backs, might have some idea about presenting Coach Alex with several touchdowns as a memento of the occasion.

And so it is defense that the Jacket coaches will stress this week. This will not be done in such a manner as to cause the offense to suffer. There will be plenty of offensive work, too.

But it is a recognized fact that without a rock-ribbed defense, Tech will not be able to make much headway against a Kentucky team that last Saturday held Ohio State, Big Ten favorites, to a 19-6 victory.

SCOUTS IMPRESSED. Roy MacArthur and Dave Wilcox, Tech coaches who scouted this game, were particularly impressed with the play of Davis and Johnson, backs and Nevers, left tackle. Davis scored Kentucky's touchdowns.

"It may only have been his day," said the scouts, "but Nevers looked great in the Kentucky line."

As the Jackets resumed work yesterday in a drill devoted mainly to getting the kinks out of stiffened muscles, there was only one player not in uniform.

Sophomore blocking back and line plunger, came out in a track training suit. He has a charley horse. He will be okay in a day or so.

Captain Lefty Ebbanks is back running with the first string at right tackle and his presence is welcome indeed. The Jackets will need full strength in the line.

FIRST SCRIMMAGE. The first scrimmage against Kentucky plays will occur today at the Flats when the Gray and White will personate the Wildcats in an offensive session against the varsity and reserves.

Much attention will be paid to reserves, particularly in the line, as the Engineers drive ahead in their practice preparations. Kentucky is well fixed for replacements.

The line, in a long session, is going down under punts yesterday, it seems the Jackets have been getting the most of their practice in this phase of the game in practice. Because it has not been necessary to kick more than four or five times in the first two games.

And so the boys must sharpen up their footwork, particularly the ends and tackles, in getting downfield to stop the receiving end.

The Jackets are planning to give Kentucky the works Saturday. That is, all the plays they know will be in. A lot of lateral passes are likely to be thrown on both sides.

TECH UNDERDOG. The Kentucky game means a lot to Tech, of course. The Wildcats have the edge in reserve strength and may possibly present in Davis and Johnson a pair of running backs that Tech will not be able to equal. Certainly the Wildcats will be picked by the majority of the so-called experts to win.

And so the game means a lot. The spirit of the Jacket players is exceptionally fine. The team to win is strong in them. So, win or lose, that conference game up at Lexington Saturday is apt to be as good as any the Jackets will offer.

One hardly knows what to expect from Tech. It may be that a volcano is about to erupt and bury a few highly favored elevens. But one cannot say.

TUSKEGEE PLAYS MORRIS BROWN

Tuskegee Institute and Morris Brown, two leading colored institutions, will face each other at Ponce de Leon park Saturday in their annual football encounter at 2 o'clock.

Unusual interest centers around the meeting of the two outstanding teams this year because of the fact that neither outfit has been able to register a point against each other for the past two years, both games ending in a scoreless tie.

Brown, champions of the south, noted the Alabama school out of the championship last season by two points, according to the Dickerson rating system, and there is a strong rivalry between them.

The Atlanta last Saturday registered an impressive victory over the Allen University eleven of Columbia, S. C., scoring 20 points in 10 minutes of a hard-fought game, while the Golden Tigers won an unimpressive victory over the weak South Carolina aggregation, 20-0.

The victory of Saturday sent the Atlanta's stock soaring and fans here are hoping that they continue their clean record of two years, undefeated by a conference team.

O'MAHONEY WINS.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—(UP)—Danny O'Mahoney, of Ireland, successfully defended his world heavyweight wrestling championship in Madison Square Garden tonight by throwing Joe Savoldi, former Notre Dame football star, after 20 minutes of a hard-fought game.

The Golden Tigers won an unimpressive victory over the weak South Carolina aggregation, 20-0.

The victory of Saturday sent the Atlanta's stock soaring and fans here are hoping that they continue their clean record of two years, undefeated by a conference team.

Tommy Bridges.

He pitched the Detroit Tigers to a 4-3 victory over the Chicago Cubs in the deciding game of the World Series Monday. It was his second victory in the series.

World Series Sidelights

By Paul Mickelson.

DETROIT, Oct. 7.—(AP)—The Goose and the Tiger feasted at last tonight as the Detroit fans, probably the most loyal of them all, went delirious with joy.

No sooner had the Goose, Leon Goslin, smashed the winning hit to drive in Manager Mickey than fully 25,000 fans rushed onto the field and toward the Tiger dugout. The playing field swarmed with humanity, wild and joyous.

"We want Goose; we want Goose," they yelled.

But the Goose was too fast for them. As soon as he saw Mickey across the plate—Mickey still across to be sure although he had time to spare—Goose dashed from first base to the dugout. Police had a difficult time holding back the surging, wild mass. A half hour later, Goose ran across the field escorted by six cops. He almost had his clothes ripped off by the mob.

Five policemen had to stand around the pitching mound to keep the wild crowd from ripping the rubber right out of the "hill."

The playing field was littered with paper and a couple bushels of vegetables that some fans took along in case of another Joe Medwick-Marvin Owen battle.

Goslin's hit was the most precious in the history of all baseball. It gave the Tigers a world championship after six attempts; it gave the Tigers an extra $4,382.72 as his cut in 25-1-2 shares. The former individual record was $6,143.49 won by the New York Yankees in the series against the Cubs in 1906.

The Cubs' individual record was $4,244.60 in the 1932 series with the Yanks.

It was the seventh "million-dollar" series, total receipts reaching $1,173,794, the largest for a six-game series. The biggest game was $1,297,884 for the seven-game series between the St. Louis Cardinals and the New York Yankees in 1926. But they didn't have the $100,000 radio cut for the others.

Empire George Moriarty got so mad at the Cubs game today that he was funny. When the Cubs protested Hack's cut at third in the sixth inning, big George wheeled around, dashed over to the left of third and demonstrated how Hack had run out of line in attempting to dodge Clifton. He almost fell over, showing 'em how.

Bridges' Family Anxious To See Him.

GORDONSVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 7.—(AP)—The Bridges boys, Tommy, has done it again and his family is mighty happy.

Dr. and Mrs. J. G. Bridges were sitting before the report of today's deciding World Series game came booming in and they learned that the Tigers, Coach Tommy, pitching, had won over the Chicago Cubs, 4 to 3.

"We're very happy," said Dr. Bridges a few minutes later.

The telephone jangled constantly and neighbors gathered in to offer congratulations.

Tommy, who gave up studying medicine to enter professional baseball, pitched the Tigers' winning game Thursday.

In the series last year he won once and lost once.

And now that it is over for this season "we're all very anxious to see him," his father, a physician, said.

"He will be coming home pretty soon, unless the team goes on an exhibition tour," Dr. Bridges added.

Willis, Reddick Withdraw at Tech

Don Willis, a likely freshman back, has withdrawn from Georgia Tech. It was learned yesterday.

Studies, it seems, presented something of a bugaboo.

The South Carolina boy, weighing about 100 and carrying a fine prep school reputation, was said to have decided to drop out of the team.

Reddick, a center, also has withdrawn from the freshman squad. Studies was the reason attributed to his dropping out.

FURMAN HEAVIER THAN BULLDOGS, SCOUTS REPORT

Purple Hurricane Boasts Outstanding Kicker in Stevens.

ATHENS, Ga., Oct. 7.—The encounter with Furman here Saturday as its next assignment, the University of Georgia gridiron squad began work today with no let-up planned in the practice schedule.

Boasting one of the best punters in the south, Roy Stevens, an excellent defensive line, the Purple Hurricane from Greenville, S. C., is expected to put up quite a tussle. Georgia scouts report that the squad is heavier than the Bulldogs and will give Coach Harry Mehre's boys a tough afternoon.

The Red and Black will be especially desirous of a victory in view of the fact that a celebration of the sixth anniversary of the dedication of Sanford stadium will be held. All available letter men on the 1929 squad will be escorted to the sidelines. Memories of how the "Hammer" soph of '29 won the great 15-0 victory over Yale will be recalled.

Saturday's 40-0 torning of the Chattanooga Gauley, S. C., is expected to pass off on a rainy day. Maurice Green suffered a pulled muscle as he was trying to recover his fumble in the first quarter, that Rodgersberry fell on for the first touchdown of the game. Green is expected to be fully recovered by Saturday, however.

With probably three scrimmages on schedule this week, the Bulldogs today have no time in starting practice for their third game of the season. Backs were drilling on defense for Furman, passed off by Dixie McLeod's team employs the single and double wing-back formations. Line men took it relatively easy, polishing up on charge plays.

TOUGH LAST YEAR. Coach McLeod has built up an enviable defensive record as coach at the South Carolina institution. During his some five years' service he has piled some of the best defensive teams in the south. The Hurricane of last year held the Georgia Tech defenseless for a full half in the first quarter. The score was 14-0. The Furman team beat Piedmont College, 60-0 in the opener and last Saturday downed Presbyterian College, 23-0.

A motorcade to Athens is being planned by supporters of the invaders. Just how large it will be is not known as yet. A large crowd is expected in view of the fact that the Hurricane will be seeking to avenge last year's defeat in the first quarter. The hands of a southern team since 1932. Relations between the Bulldogs and Hurricane date back over a span of 42 years. Georgia has won 12 of the 13 games played.

Furman's most outstanding men besides Stevens and Bob King, end and excellent pass receiver, are Burrall, center, and E. J. Griffith, crackback fullback. Stevens scored a punt that went over 70 yards against Georgia last year.

Coach Wade Suspends Three of Blue Devils

DURHAM, N. C., Oct. 7.—(AP)—Coach Wallace Wade announced today the indefinite suspension of three outstanding members of the Duke University football team for what he described as "misconduct" Saturday night following the Blue Devils' victory over Washington and Lee that afternoon.

The suspended griders are Frank Liams, of Brooklyn, N. Y., letterman end; Ike Ekins, of Evansville, Ind., sophomore center, and Joe Brunanaky, of Beaver Falls, Pa., sophomore tackle.

Ekins and Liams played most of the game against the Generals and were outstanding. Brunanaky, after starting in the Wake Forest and South Carolina games, was injured and Coach Wade did not use him against the Generals Saturday.

In announcing the suspensions, Coach Wade said, "I do not know when or whether they will be allowed to return to the squad."

Dorothy Kirby Cards 86 To Take Medal in State Golf Meet

1934 CHAMPION POSTS 94 CARD AT EAST LAKE

Strong Field Entered in Annual Georgia State Tournament.

By Roy White.

Dorothy Kirby, Atlanta's sensational young golfer, won medal honors Monday on the No. 2 East Lake course in the qualifying round for the annual Georgia Women's tournament. Dorothy carded an 86, only four strokes above women's par, and only 14 strokes higher than men's par.

The women qualified from the men's team. Match play will be from the same team.

Dorothy will be seeking her second state championship, having first won the title in 1933 at the age of 13. She did not defend her crown last year and except for the southern tourney, where she went to the semi-finals, Dorothy has played no tournament golf this season. She has played in several exhibition matches during the spring and summer months.

Mrs. S. B. Lippitt, of Albany, defending champion, qualified with a 94, and was tied by Miss Martha Daniel, of Rome, for third position.

Mrs. Guy Butler, Atlanta's champion, and runner-up to Mrs. Lippitt last year at Albany, placed second in the qualifying round with a 92.

There are 31 entries, one of the strongest fields ever to seek a state crown. Match play will start at 9 o'clock this morning with Kirby meeting Mrs. Alfred Thompson in the first round. Mrs. Butler will play Mrs. Ben Barrow, in the lower half of the championship bracket.

The losing players in the first round today will form consolation flights and continue play. The finals will be played Friday morning.

As an added feature today, the annual approaching and putting contest will be held immediately following the first round.

Mixed foursome event will feature Friday afternoon's play.

Boy Bets on Tigers, Wins and Gets Shot
NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 7.—(AP)—Black Robins, 15-year-old negro boy, had to follow the World Series game today from a hospital bed.

Mack was backing the Tigers Saturday and unfortunately for him they won. He had a five cent bet on the game. The nickel, police said, was bet with Willie Dean, 30, negro.

After the game Mack went around to collect his five cents. All he got was two bullets in the abdomen, from which he has a chance to recover. Police got Dean and charged him with assault with a pistol with intent to murder, and with carrying a pistol.

Four Contenders in Women's State Golf Meet Now in Progress

GOSLIN'S SINGLE BEATS CUBS, 4-3

base but which he was not able to handle in time for a throw to first. The Tiger manager reached second on Gehring's roller down the first-base line but again a "break" favored the American leaguers.

Phil Cavarretta, the Cub first baseman, after scooping up the ball and stepping on first, threw hard to second in an attempt to catch Coghane. The throw was too low, however, and glanced off Mickey's shoulder as runner and ball came to the bag together.

This set the stage for the Goose. Heless in four previous turns at bat, Goslin swung hard at the first pitch and fouled it against the lower boxes in front of the right-field pavilion. He hit the next pitch on a line over Herman's head and Coghane came home easily to end the ball game and the series.

EXCITING BASEBALL.
The American league's first World Series triumph in three years was marked by exciting, but none too brilliant baseball and a weird succession of injuries as well as "breaks" and umpire-baiting. The Tigers had to revamp their infield for the last four games, after losing Greenberg. The Cubs had two casualties. Centerfielder Freddie Lindstrom, who was forced out of the last two games by an injured finger, and Lon Warneke, pitching both of the only two Chicago victories, but it cannot be said that either mishap affected the outcome. Klein, taking Lindstrom's place in the batting order, was the hitting hero of yesterday's Cub triumph. Warneke's lame arm was more costly, whether or not it altered the final outcome. Lonnie had been able to pitch, might have been tossed into today's fray to hold the Cub lead.

HIGHEST SINCE 1926.
The total series receipts $1,173,794, were the highest since 1926 and close to the record set at $1,207,894 that year by the Yankees and Cardinals in seven games. One more game this year would have established an all-time high for the "gate" which again included $100,000 for the broadcasting rights.

The record players' pool, amounting to $414,507.60, will result in the biggest payoff of World Series history for the contending clubs. Each member of the Tigers will get $6,331.88, according to unofficial calculations, while each Cub share will amount to $4,352.72. The difference between the money split by the World Series rivals was upwards of $50,000 and represented the big payoff on Goslin's winning blow.

ALL BUT ONE.
So far as the football squad is concerned, Penn State lives up to its name almost 100 per cent. The only member whose home isn't in Pennsylvania is Bill Perlman, a guard from New York.

Petrel Coach Returns From Arkansas Riot

Patrick Had Seen Such Things in Movies, But Didn't Believe They Actually Happened.

By Jack Troy.

One gathers from hearing him stutter that Coach John Patrick, of Oglethorpe, does not care whether they change the name of Ark-An-Saw. "I have seen such things in movie plots and laughed. I have read about such scenes in magazines and gotten a kick out of it. But never did I expect anything actually to happen like that Friday night riot in Clarksville, Ark., away up in the mountains," Patrick said as he returned yesterday.

"I am glad they were able to bring me back alive," continued Patrick, a la Frank Buck. "During the course of the riot out on the field, with mountaineers swarming around, somebody slipped up behind me and hit me over the head. There have been a lot of jokes about wearing your hat so they'll know you. And this was one time that a hat saved me a real headache. As it was the blow almost felled me."

Despite his 72 years, Sunday still down plays and offered only a mild protest. That is, until Kelly Byars intercepted a forward pass on our one-yard line and ran 90 yards for a touchdown. The play was called back because the officials said Byars, who was back of the goal line defending against passes, was offside. A protest was unavailing.

CHASERS OFFICIAL.
"It was right after this play that one of my boys asked an official why this ruling was made and he said the official called him a dirty name. And so the boy chased that official about 15 yards and then knocked him down."

"We had stood almost everything within the limits of reason. And to have an official call the boy a dirty name was simply too much."

"The official apologized and let the boy continue in the game after the riot which ensued. It was a first-class riot. I ran around getting my boys together and rushed them off to the side where they wouldn't get hurt. "And when the spectators calmed down I asked the officials to let the game continue. Which they did."

"There was only six minutes to go and there were no more penalties. However, during the game we were penalized 361 yards. College of the Ozarks was penalized ten."

NO SCORES ALLOWED.
"We made ten first downs to Ozark's four. All our first downs were made around the middle of the field because whenever we had a chance to score and did cross the goal (we actually did cross the goal four times), the play was called back for one reason and another."

It seems that officials early declared Oglethorpe's submarine pass illegal. Sullivan ran from midfield after taking the submarine, which is a forward pass at the line of scrimmage, and scored. "But," said Coach Patrick, "the official blew his whistle after Sullivan had crossed the goal and called the play back. He said Oglethorpe was offside. They also called my wingback in motion almost every time they shifted."

Patrick did not think the school was in any way to blame. He thought other elements were responsible. "It was a great experience," Patrick said. "I played through high school, sometimes in rough towns, and never had anything like that to happen to me. And I continued at Oglethorpe, going around the country with the teams and there was never any trouble. We used virtually the same system as today and officials found nothing wrong with our submarine plays, spinners and so on."

"And in my first year as coach we had no trouble in any city in which we played. Truth is stranger than fiction. I know that now. Maybe we were partly to blame because of not being able to understand how a team could be penalized so many yards."

Patrick had no real complaint to register about the whole affair. He merely passed it off as an incident to remember and laugh about. He's glad to be back alive.

SARPOLIS FACES ROCHE TONIGHT IN MAIN MATCH

Plenty of Action Promised Fans at Auditorium Tonight.

Two outstanding heavyweights will feature Matchmaker Henry Weber's weekly matinee at the city auditorium tonight.

Dr. Karl Sarpolis, the Seattle bone specialist, will meet Darryl Roche, the big Scranton mail miner, in the main match slated for 90 minutes of fast and exciting wrestling.

The one-hour match will see a new-comer in action, Rudy Luitz, 218-pound French-Canadian, will face Jack O'Brien, the big Boston Bean buster, and this match promises plenty of varied action and excitement.

NEWCOMERS.
Two other newcomers to these parts will be seen in the opening match that is scheduled for 30 minutes. Lee Myers, Little Rock grappler, will meet Bob Blair, Dallas boy.

The main match should be one of the best Weber has offered here in quite a spell. Sarpolis is one of the outstanding grapplers in the country and is able to give young Roche plenty of entertainment in the ring. Sarpolis is a veteran of the old school and in addition to being one of the most rugged heavyweights of the day, he is an expert on punishing heels. Being a bone specialist, he naturally knows quite a bit about vital spots.

He wins many of his matches with his secret holds. He is a scientific wrestler but one who can rough it whenever necessary.

MUCH AT STAKE.
Roche has much at stake on the outcome of the match. If he wins he will, in all probability, be given the first crack in the main event, former champion, when the latter starts his "comeback" campaign. London has informed Weber that he plans to start his comeback in Atlanta in the near future and the matchmaker is looking about for a formidable foe for London. Roche has beaten some of the big shots of the mat before and is anxious to get a chance to upset London's plans.

Matchmaker Weber advises fans to purchase their tickets early and avoid the late rush at the auditorium box office. Ladies with paid escorts will be admitted free. Tickets are on sale at the Piedmont Hatters.

MAJOR ELEVEN COME THROUGH
NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—(UP)—Potential sectional and national champions took off their wraps and settled down to serious work as the 1935 football campaign got in full swing this week-end.

Nearly all the nation's leading eleven, some of them making their first appearance of the season, won expected victories.

Only five major upsets were recorded, and two of them involved teams which had been on the short end during last week's slaughter—Cornell and Wisconsin.

Cornell lost, 33-19, to Western Reserve while Wisconsin bowed, 33-0, to Marquette. Washington surprised with a 13-6 victory over a strong Santa Clara eleven. One of the most startling triumphs was Rhode Island's 13-7 victory over Brown—its first in 24 years.

North Carolina upset Tennessee, 33-13, one of the Volunteers' worst lickings in years.

Although many major teams have yet to meet stiff opposition, potential champions began to display their power in all sectors.

The week-end sectional review: Fordham, Navy, Colgate, Pittsburgh, Princeton and Notre Dame stood out as the east's strongest. Fordham halted Princeton College, 19-0. Navy used its regulars in scoring 27 points in its first half against Mercer and then gave the substitutes a workout in a scoreless last half. Colgate, playing a triangular game, defeated St. Lawrence, 31-0, in one-half and Amherst, 12-0, in the second. Pittsburgh flashed a brilliant attack in beating Washington and Jefferson, 35-0.

Princeton opened with a 7-6 victory over a Pennsylvania team which looked tough even in defeat. Yale opened by halting New Hampshire, 24-0, while Harvard subdued a weak Springfield team, 20-0. Alabama, tied last week by Howard, defeated Georgia Washington, 30-0. Army looked weak as it was pressed hard to stop William and Mary, 14-0. Notre Dame scored a snarl 14-3 victory over Carnegie Tech. Columbia opened with a none-too-bright triumph over Virginia Military Institute, 12-0.

Midwest—Ohio State, Michigan State and Purdue stood out as the class of the midwest, with Nebraska asserting itself in the Big Six. Ohio State whipped a strong Kentucky team, 19-6. Michigan State stopped Michigan, 26-6, and Purdue topped Northwestern, 7-0. Chicago defeated Carroll, 31-0; Illinois whipped Washington, 28-6; Iowa defeated South Dakota, 47-2; and Nebraska halted Iowa State, 20-7.

Southwest—Two south-western eleven lost intersectional games and one was victorious. Temple defeated Texas A. & M., 14-0, while Louisiana State, which plays Manhattan in New York next week, beat Texas, 15-6. Rice defeated Duquesne of Pittsburgh, 27-7. Southern Methodist, gunning for a conference championship, downed Tulsa, 14-0. Texas Christian defeated Arkansas, 13-7, and Texas Aggies whipped Baylor, 10-6.

Atlanta's Play To Open Tonight At St. James Theater in London

By Sally Forth.

A LICE ORMOND CAMPBELL will experience the greatest thrill of her life tonight when her first play, "Two Share a Dwelling," an emotional and tense sex drama, has its London premiere in St. James theater. The author was born and reared in Atlanta, and frequently returns here to visit Mrs. Hinton J. Hopkins, her only sister.

Young and blondly beautiful, Grete Morshheim, well-known Austrian actress, takes the leading role, and plays the girl with the dual personality. As Lilia, her natural self, she is sensitive, conscientious and charming. As Bess, her dual self, she becomes carefree, cute, vulgar and unprincipled. Her mother died when she was five years old and her father, selfish, greedy, domineering ex-major, is married to an aristocratic Englishwoman. They conspire to conceal her dual personality in order to get her well-married.

Lilia remembers nothing at all about her lapses as Bess, and owing to the care and strategy practiced by her parents and Ellen, her dual nurse, she is unaware she possesses the dual personality. The play begins with Lilia's marriage to a wealthy and generous Canadian, who inherited a baronetcy. The second act revolves around her married life, and depicts the madly-in-love husband very much worried over his wife's unreponsiveness to his lovemaking. He consults a nerve specialist, who visits the house incognito in order to observe Lilia, who has a perfect horror of doctors.

The plot unfolds with a black-maller coming upon the scene who knows about the dual personality of Lilia and threatens to expose her to the world unless he is well paid for his silence. The last act rises to terrific emotional heights and many dramatic situations develop. Lilia finally submits to the doctor's treatment and is sent to Vienna to be cured of her affliction.

When the tryout of "Two Share a Dwelling" was made in Glasgow last week, the critics acclaimed the play with unqualified praise. One commentator declared it psychologically so sound it would satisfy Freud. Storms of applause and nine curtain calls greeted the cast and the author. Mrs. Campbell has been approached already by film magnates to have the play produced on the silver screen.

THE prospect of a new and extremely attractive addition to the Debutante Club centers the interest of Atlanta's socialites. She is Alexandria Bell, of Cairo, Ga., the daughter of Judge and Mrs. R. C. Bell, her father being a judge of the supreme court. Mrs. Bell is the former Miss Jennie Vereen, of Moultrie.

Alexandria is a lovely blonde, and has been a very popular guest of the Russell Bridges in Atlanta many times. She attended Shorter College in Rome and later studied at the High Museum of Art, where she displayed excellent skill as an artist. It is with eager interest that her decision as to whether she will accept her invitation to membership in the Debutante Club is awaited. Marjorie Carmichael, whom Sally spoke of before, has definitely decided to join.

ATLANTA Junior Leaguers are so versatile that Sally isn't surprised at anything they attempt. You know, they have done practically everything from running a department store to caring for the children at the Cornelia Moore Day Nursery. But until a short time ago, they had not done any sewing.

So Sarah Hurt Marye, who is quite an adept with a needle, decided to organize a sewing club. Accordingly, she secured the use of an empty store and rented a number of sewing machines. The members met regularly, inspired by Sarah's enthusiasm, and soon they were making clothes for the needy little children at the nursery, and doing much other sewing for charity which came to their attention.

Sarah Kennedy Hurt, who is also an expert needlewoman, and Mrs. John Stewart, who knits all those stunning suits you see her wearing, have also lent their time and talents and furnished inspiration for the sewing group. Other members have become enthusiastic that, at their odd moments, they have cut and fashioned frocks for themselves as well as their children.

The first fall meeting of the sewing club is scheduled for 9:30 o'clock Wednesday morning, and will be under the direction of Mrs. John Fitts, who is the new chairman. The group will meet twice each week in the basement of Mrs. Wiley Ballard's lovely new home on Habersham road. There they will cut and sew for those less fortunate than themselves—another evidence of what the Junior League accomplishes for sweet charity's sake.

VIRGINIA HURT, a member of the sophomore class at Mount Holyoke College, is enrolled in the student tennis class this fall. Virginia is the attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joel Hurt Jr. and is numbered among the most popular and attractive girls attending Mount Holyoke in South Hadley, Mass. She is the namesake of her charming mother, the former Virginia Lipscomb, who was an acknowledged belle during her young ladyhood here. Virginia Hurt has taken a leading part in college activities since her enrollment in the freshman class.

FALL GARDEN NOTES By F. F. Fisher

Tis Tuesday morning, and most of you know where I am or at least where I usually am on this day. In my garden. The next thing you will want to know is "What are you doing, everything is so very dry?" For one thing I have been building a rock wall and after that was finished I edged my flower beds with brick. This I have wanted to do for years but since my garden is so very naturalistic I hesitated to give such definite lines. I compromised by using very old brick, some with moss already on them, some even broken. Now that it is done I like it. I find that most people, men especially, like definite edges to beds, for even after the plants pass away we can be conscious of the design.

Jorie Scott, John Rooney, Earl Canfield, Phillip Rhodes, W. E. Spinks and John D. Humphries Jr. Miss Mary Powell, Allen Palmer, Miss Toinette Dorman, Tom Sanders, Miss Claire Landin, Wink Taylor and George Boling formed a party. Forming a party were Miss Alys Pierce, James Morton, Miss Billie Roundtree, Mr. and Mrs. Durkin Jones, Miss Belle Scott Meadow, Henry Buice and Sam Nelson.

I have been going through iris beds taking off dead leaves, they are so likely to harbor insect pests. These leaves are burned. I am also making sure that we have no bagworms on the arborvita and other coniferous evergreens. These pests can be hand picked, or if this is too great a task they can be poisoned with arsenate of lead. Several weeks ago before this drouth started I divided my blue phlox and primroses. Being so newly transplanted they must be kept watered. They haven't had time to establish root growth. I do not water them every day but thoroughly soak when necessary.

And when I must I water chrysanthemums for it is so near their blooming time. Fertilize them until the buds show color. I've been growing some of the new Korean hybrid chrys-

Circolo Italiano Changes Name.

At a recent meeting of the Circolo Italiano members voted to change the name of the club to the Italian American Club of Atlanta. The club has enlarged its membership during the past year, having received not only Italians but many Americans as well, and the change in name was thought appropriate to express the enlarged status of the club.

It was decided to celebrate Columbus Day on October 2, with a dinner-dance to be held at the Elks Club on that date. Several prominent speakers will attend and other notables are expected to attend.

anthemums. Since they are new on the market they are still high priced. For this reason I tried to grow as many from cuttings as possible. I actually have one about 10 inches tall with three buds on it that I grew from a leaf. If I ever have a lecture on plant propagation I shall certainly show you how I did it.

Better Than Powder For The Complexion

Nearly all beauty experts agree that nothing detracts from a woman's appearance as much as the "powdery look" which explains why smart women everywhere are turning to "Cu-Crema" as their most reliable complexion aid. This new all-in-one complexion treatment not only takes the place of powder and other cosmetics, giving the skin a beautiful tone and finish, but is also highly beneficial in preventing ugly, reddening and roughening of the skin in all kinds of weather.

By FRANK MACMILLAN.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Stock prices slumped upward today in a restrained trading. The rails and a few specialties got the bulk of attention from buyers.

Cautious advances from brokers to their clients on account of the international political situation, and the fact that the day was a Jewish holiday, combined to lead dealers down to the smallest proportions for a full session since September 3. Turnover was 946,810 shares.

A rise of 3 1/2 points was shown by the Associated Press average of 60 stocks at 48.7. The 15 carrier equities in the compilation advanced 1/8 of a point at 23.9, while the industrials and utilities slumped upward.

Despite the moderate and counter moves of general and statesmen in European capitals and in Africa, there appeared to be some waning of war psychology in Wall Street.

Wheat was easier in Chicago, foreign currencies generally improved against the dollar and Italian bonds, firm for a time, ended steady. United States government securities developed strength. The stock market's "war babies" were not, on the whole, much firmer than other sections of the list, although coppers, oil chemicals found some takers at higher levels.

Metal Shares Gain.

The non-ferrous metal shares improved as the export copper price continued to rise, this time to 9.10 cents a pound, above the 9-cent domestic level and the highest since 1931. Lead, tin, zinc, silver and gold shares were advanced by leading smelters 10 of a cent to 4.60-4.65 cents a pound, New York.

Most of the metal leaders were up only fractionally, but the advances were sufficient in view of the rise in the group to make a number of new highs for the year or longer for such issues as Anaconda, American Smelting, Kennecott, Phelps Dodge, American Metals and Joseph Lead. Extreme gains in the division were in many cases shaded by closing time.

In the Chicago grain pits, wheat slipped down 5/8 cent to 1.12 1/2 bushel. Corn ended irregular, 1-4 of a cent off to 7-8 higher. At New York cotton futures advanced 25 to 70 cents a pound.

Several specialties in the share market turned active and higher following the appearance on Wall Street news tickers of good earnings and dividend news.

Spiegel-May-Stern was ahead around 4 points for a time and ended up better than 20 to 1-4 when directors ordered dividend view, 25 cents quarterly after a lapse since May, 1930. At the same time it was announced that sales for September were 41 per cent better than in the same month of 1934.

Greyhound continued to reflect the announcement Saturday of its contract with the New York Central for a gain better than 3 points at 68 1/2. Stewart-Warner was active and fractionally higher as dividends were resumed with a 50-cent semi-annual declaration and a 25-cent extra.

Leading stocks were mostly a shade higher despite the estimate of the American Iron & Steel Institute that operations in the industry for the current week would be 1.1 points lower at 49.7 per cent of capacity.

Rails gave a last-minute upsurge in performance as Wall Street statisticians calculated that carloadings figures later in the week would show a sharp rebound after the slump due to the coal strike. Gainers of major fractions to a point or a little more in this division included Union Pacific at 95, New York Central at 21 7/8, Santa Fe at 43 3/4, Delaware & Hudson at 32 3/4, Pennsylvania at 26, Illinois Central at 14 5/8 and a number of others.

Up about as much elsewhere in the list were American Telephone at 138 3/4, Sears-Roebuck at 55, Chrysler at 73 3/4, Alcoa Chemical at 107, Standard Oil of New Jersey at 44 1/2 and Monsanto at 84 3/4.

SLIGHT DROP SHOWN IN LUMBER BUSINESS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Slight decreases in lumber production shipments and orders were reported today by the National Lumber Manufacturers' Association for the week ended September 28.

Reports from 566 mills for the week gave production at 238,780,000 feet, shipments 216,558,000 feet and orders 214,320,000 feet. Revised figures for the week ended September 28 would decrease the differences considerably if not entirely erase them.

BROKERS' VIEWS
FENNER & BEANE—We would now re-consider the market's reaction to the inside reactions but would quickly reverse this trading policy in the event of adverse developments.

DOBBS & CO.—In spite of the fact that the market is showing a slight recovery, we are still of the opinion that the market is in a state of uncertainty.

THE TARZAN TWINS No. 32

As the panther sprang, it could not refrain from a snarl of anticipated victory, for it was certain of its prey. But that triumphant snarl was a split-second warning to Tarzan. There was neither time nor need for him to look back to determine the source of his danger.

No logical reasoning determined the ape-man's consequent behavior. He acted with the sure instinct of the hunted beast, and with a swiftness which few beasts could duplicate. There seemed no measurable interval of time between the panther's snarl and Tarzan's reaction.

His muscles snapped taut and flung his body to one side of his former position. But even his incredible swiftness was not sufficient to escape entirely from that bolt of black lightning. A sharp, nail-studded claw landed heavily on Tarzan's shoulder and scraped his flesh.

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

But as the beast darted its head around to sink relentless fangs into the body of the prey, Tarzan leaped to his feet. And now the panther, infuriated by failure of the first attack, voiced a terrifying scream, whirled quickly, and rushed the ape-man at close range!
